HOUSES OF ILL FAME
BROUGHT INTO ISSUE

Sims Says Chief Permits Them to Run—Police Head Asks Him to Report Specific Cases.

Because the police department of Atlanta "is showing absolute negligence in enforcing traffic laws of the city," automobiles are being allowed to "run rampant and reap a harvest of human lives and limbs," Mayor Walter A. Sims declared Thursday in a sensational statement on local automobile accident figures for the month of February.

At the same time, Mayor Sims replied to critics of the police committee in its fight to remove Police Chief James L. Beavers, by saying that it is a mistake idea that the committee's fight on the chief is in any way connected with his abolishment several years ago of the segregated district.

"I would just like to say," said Mayor Sims, "for the benefit of a few who have seen fit to criticize the police committee concerning its fight on Chief Beavers, that the fight is not based on the chief's opposition to a red light district, but because of his attitude in permitting houses of ill fame to operate openly in decent Atlanta neighborhoods."

Wants to Close Houses. "I do not suppose it has ever entered the mind of any of the members of the police committee to attempt to reinstate in Atlanta a segregated district. What the committee wants is to clean up the red light districts that are scattered throughout the city."

Chief Beavers, in reply to the mayor's criticism, asserted he did not wish to engage in a controversy while his case is pending in the courts. He stated, however, that the police department had docketed a total of 512 traffic cases during February, which, according to records, was indication sufficient to show that the department had not been idle in attempting to enforce traffic regulations.

The chief declared it was the "duty of Mayor Sims and any other city official having knowledge of the existence of houses of ill-repute within the city to report them to the police department." He quoted figures from his records showing that the department had arrested "and held in custody a total of 1,196 white women" during 1922.

Traffic Casualty Figures. Unofficial automobile accident figures for the month of February which were the subject of the mayor's comment, show that during that period a total of 47 collisions and wrecks occurred which resulted in 17 persons killed and 40 persons injured.

In connection with these figures it is disclosed that 21 persons were arrested for participation in these accidents.

Chief Collector Rose Refuses Statement on Opinion of Attorney-General of Georgia.

Internal revenue agents have no right to demand information from a bank about its customers' accounts, according to an opinion rendered by Attorney General George M. Napier to State Superintendent of Banks T. R. Bennett, Thursday afternoon.

The opinion was given at request of Mr. Bennett, following inquiries received in his office from a number of banks throughout the state. It appears that in some places internal revenue collectors, seeking information for the income tax collection department of their office, have gone to banks with a list of depositors and have demanded a full report of each of these individuals' balances with the bank, the deposits, withdrawals, etc., for the past year.

Violates Constitution. Mr. Napier, in his opinion, brands this practice as absolutely in violation both of the state constitution and of the constitution of the United States. "It is an invasion, not only of the rights of the bank, but of the rights of the depositors," he declared.

He points out that there is a legal method, by appealing to the courts, through which books and papers may be brought into court. But, he continues, until that method is brought into play, "all persons should be secure—actually and constitutionally secure—in the private and confidential possession of their papers and effects committed to the bank severally selected by each."

The opinion says further: "The examination of the private accounts of depositors of a bank by an outsider not legally authorized would be the exercise of the highest tyranny and oppression, of a power monstrous and revolting. It is the equivalent of the ruthless invasion of a private home and the search in that locality sacred from the presence of an unwelcome intruder, of the private papers and effects of the owner."

Pointing out that the private papers and effects of the individual are guaranteed, both by the state and federal governments, to be sacred and free from unreasonable searches and seizures, Mr. Napier quotes the following paragraph from the constitution of the state of Georgia. He also draws attention to the fact that the United States constitution uses exactly the same words. The paragraph quoted is as follows:

"The right of the people to be secure in their persons, houses, papers and effects, against unreasonable searches and seizures, shall not be violated; and no warrant shall issue except upon probable cause, supported by oath or affirmation, particularly describing the place or places to be searched, and the persons or things to be seized."

Banks Ask Ruling. Speaking of this matter on Thursday, Superintendent Bennett stated that he had simply asked for the opinion in order to be able to properly advise bankers who had written him asking what course to pursue when such demands were made upon them by internal revenue collectors for the federal government.

Collector of Internal Revenue Jonathan T. Rose, for the Georgia district, informed of this ruling, stated last night that his office would have no objection to the ruling.

CONFEREES BEGIN
WORK ON FARMER
CREDIT MEASURES

Two Meetings Held During Day and Prospects Are Declared Bright for an Early Agreement.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS. Washington, March 1.—Senate and house conferees began work late today on the agricultural credits bill, passed today by the house. Two meetings were held and it was said prospects were bright for an early agreement.

The bill includes portions of two senate bills—the Capper and Lenroot-Anerson measures—both of which went through the senate by overwhelming majorities and before the conference began house conferees expressed the opinion that quick action would be had.

House opponents of the measure indicated today they did not base high hopes on material changes in the conference. The new federal banking system proposed would consist of twelve "intermediate credit banks," located in the same cities as the federal farm loan banks, and with a capital of $5,000,000 each. They would be authorized to issue tax free debentures up to a total of $800,000,000, giving them aggregate resources of $800,000,000, or nearly twice the amount which the war finance corporation has been called upon to advance to the agricultural industry.

Private credit corporations which will be authorized by the bill would have a capital of not less than $250,000 each and their number would be unlimited. It is these organizations that will make advances to producers of livestock on long term paper. There also would be private discount corporations having a capital stock of not less than $1,000,000 each. Under an amendment adopted by the house the war finance corporation would continue to function until next January 31, by which time it is assumed that the new farm credit systems will be in operation.

NEGRO IS DENIED
FEDERAL OFFICE

Nomination of Walter L. Cohen for Customs Comptroller at New Orleans Beaten in Senate.

Washington, March 1.—The contested nomination of Walter L. Cohen, negro republican leader of Louisiana, to be customs comptroller at New Orleans was finally denied tonight by the senate, which rejected the president's nomination.

The vote on the confirmation of Cohen was 27 to 35, it was reported, with a few republicans joining the bulk of the democrats, in defeating the nomination. Senators Randall and Broussard, Louisiana, democrats, led the fight against Cohen, who for years has been republican state champion of Louisiana and a prominent figure among southern delegates at republican national conventions. It is understood that he was declared "personally objectionable" to Senator Randall.

Cohen's nomination was presented during the special session of congress last November, but failed by lapse at the end of the session and his name was presented again by President Harding.

CONFERENCE HERE

Sculptor Addresses World by Radio to Tell of Stupendous Memorial to Confederate Heroes.

Governors and United States senators of the thirteen original states of the confederacy, President Harding, former President Woodrow Wilson and his cabinet, and heads of all southern patriotic and historical organizations were Thursday night officially invited over WGM, The Constitution's radio broadcasting station, to a conference to be held at the Capital City club here on the night of March 29, by Gutzon Borglum, famous sculptor, representing the Stone Mountain Memorial association.

Mr. Borglum told his invisible audience that the purpose of the meeting is to determine upon each state's claim for position in the stupendous memorial to the confederacy and her heroic leaders to be carved in gigantic proportions upon the sheer granite sides of Stone Mountain, the world's greatest single rock.

The session of southern dignitaries and nationally prominent leaders will also take its share in the immense undertaking "in the order of the historical prominence of the great general officers of their states in the civil war," Mr. Borglum, who is the moving spirit of the memorial.

Poor People! They Haven't Enough Money to Get Married.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS. Los Angeles, March 1.—Pola Negri, motion picture actress, has broken her engagement to Charlie Chaplin, comedian of the films, according to an interview the Los Angeles Times will publish tomorrow.

Beyond remarking that there "were a thousand reasons why I should not marry Mr. Chaplin," Miss Negri avoided conversation following her announcement that the engagement was off and confined her explanation of the break to written statement, the text of which follows:

"I consider I am too poor to marry Charlie Chaplin. He needs to marry a wealthy woman, and he should have no difficulty in finding one in the United States—the richest and most beautiful country in the world."

"Therefore, I gave Mr. Chaplin his freedom and release him from his engagement. I wish him the best of luck and I will always be his devoted friend."

"Please don't ask me any questions," she warned, after her statement had been read. "I am not able to answer them."

"In they come three by three, Pretty as Pretty can be." This couplet maker expressed his idea of the entrants into the American Legion Tableau Beauty contest which is being held for the purpose of selecting the two most beautiful girls in Atlanta to play the parts of "Miss Columbia" and the "Mother of America." In the legion patriotic tableau, "Carry On!" to be shown as a feature in the five features show at the Atlanta theater all of next week, except Friday.

Mayor Walter A. Sims, in recognition of the legion's efforts for Americanism, Thursday issued a proclamation designating the week as "All-Americanism Week" in Atlanta. Yesterday, Atlanta was plunged deeper into the problem of determining for its collective and individual selves just which two of the number of beautiful girls' pictures already published, are the most beautiful. And now it is made still more difficult by these last three. It's easy to see that it's going to be hard for the committee of judges to select the two most beautiful girls.

Speculation is running rife. Argument is running rife.

CRISP IS URGED FOR DEBT BODY

President Is Now Considering Appointments of Democrats to the U. S. Funding Commission.

Constitution Bureau, Raleigh Hotel.

Washington, March 1.—(By Constitution Leased Wire.)—In compliance with a provision of the foreign debt funding bill, President Harding will shortly appoint three democrats to the debt funding commission, it was learned today.

While no information has come from the white house as to who the appointees will be, reliable authority has it that the president is strongly inclined to select Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, acting democratic leader of the senate, and probable successor to Senator Underwood in the next congress; Senator Glass, of Virginia, former secretary of the treasury under the Wilson administration, and Representative Charles R. Crisp, of Georgia, member of the house ways and means committee, which reported out the measure in the lower chamber. The names of all three have been urged for the commission and are now under consideration, it is said.

It is said to be significant that Representative Crisp was in conference with the president at the white house Wednesday.

In a letter to Senator Harris, of Georgia, who is the author of the amendment providing for democratic representation on the commission, Mr. Harding said he was disposed to confine the appointments to members of congress, because of the peculiar duties of the debt body. Observers take this as indicating the additional members will go to two senate members and one from the house.

As presently constituted the commission consists of four members, including Secretary Mellon, Secretary Hughes, Senator Smoot, of Utah, and Representative Burton, of Ohio.

Auditorium Jammed With Greatest Crowd of History When Old Rivals Meet at Basketball.

BY RALPH T. JONES

When the final pistol shot from the timer's seat announced the close of the Georgia-Georgia Tech basketball game last night, officials of the Music Festival association heaved a profound sigh of relief.

It will not be necessary to retool the auditorium for Grand Opera. To paraphrase the immortal Flonker Slapper, ignorance about basketball is something this scribe has nothing else but. Therefore, for details of the aforementioned game, for final score, list of dead and wounded, etc., see those columns of this issue compiled by the erudite Homer George and the more or less handsome Cliff Wheatley.

Pandemonium Reigns. However, and notwithstanding, it is a matter of impelling urge to write something about that hooting, shouting, stamping, screaming, yelling, filled, hysterical pack of maniacs that filled the old auditorium to the roof last night. Undoubtedly, had there been anyone to observe the phenomenon, the walls and roof would have been seen to distinctly bulge several times during the noisy festivities.

For, there was a noise. My yes, considerable of a rucous. At this moment John Staton has just come into the office. He brings the information that the final score was Tech 27, Georgia 22. And John

SENATE APPROVES
$400,000 FOR U. S.
COAL COMMISSION

President Expresses Hope That House Will Vote Needed Appropriation for Federal Body.

ANTHRACITE EMBARGO
OPPOSED BY HARDING

Sends Letter to Representative Rogers—Big Wage Increase Given Miners in Alabama.

Constitution Bureau, Raleigh Hotel.

Washington, March 1.—(By Constitution Leased Wire.)—Continued operations of the United States coal fact-finding commission were virtually assured today as a result of the action of the senate in accepting an item of the deficiency bill providing an additional appropriation of $400,000 for the body. When the bill was before the house the item was stricken out on a point of order, but by being added in the senate today its final acceptance by conferees is practically assured.

Members of the commission recently declared that unless congress granted the additional sum the body would be forced to discontinue operations although important plans were under way for inspecting conditions in the coal fields of the south and southeast with the view of making recommendations for stabilizing the industry.

In offering the item, the senate committee praised the work of the commission, declaring it had already effected measures for preventing another strike this spring.

OPPOSES EMBARGO ON ANTHRACITE. BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS. Washington, March 1.—President Harding declared in a letter made public here today that he did not favor an anthracite embargo to relieve the fuel situation in the northeastern section of the country and felt that responsibility for any other action in facilitating shipments to that district must rest wholly with the interstate commerce commission.

The letter was addressed to Representative Rogers, republican, Massachusetts, and outlined at length the administration's attitude toward the New England situation. Mr. Harding said he had turned over all complaints to the commission, which had investigated them and taken the action it thought best. He added that there was "no one with power to tell the commission what to do."

Mr. Harding wrote in reply to a letter from Mr. Rogers, calling his attention to New England newspaper stories in which the executive was quoted as saying that the people of Massachusetts were suffering from hysteria rather than an actual shortage of coal.

"If I am quoted in the New England press as your letter indicates," the president wrote "it is the fault of the newspapers' quotation and the blame cannot be attached to me. I did say to the newspaper men,

BARON ROSENBERG TO OUTLINE PLAN FOR SETTLEMENT

Foreign Minister Will Avoid Proposal Which, to German Mind, Will Appear Too Concrete.

"OFFICIAL APPARATUS IN RUHR PARALYZED"

German Embassy in Washington Gives Warning of Danger of "Explosions" in the Occupied Territory.

BY FERDINAND JAHN.

United News Staff Correspondent. Berlin, March 1.—Baron Von Rosenberg, German foreign minister, is drawing up "peace terms" which, it is hoped, will result in the French evacuation of the Ruhr. It was learned on the highest authority Thursday night that Rosenberg, in an address in the reichstag next week, will outline conditions of settlement of the Ruhr impasse.

The foreign minister, it is understood, will avoid making any proposal which, to the German mind, is too concrete, but will set forth a plan which, officials here, may be made the basis of discussion between France and Germany.

Members of the Cuno cabinet are of the belief that negotiations to settle the difficulties with France arising from Germany's reparations default will be held soon.

The new offer to be made to the allies, it is understood, will nearly approach the 50,000,000,000 gold mark suggested by Bonar Law at the Paris allied premier's conference, which broke up because of the differences between Britain and France and precipitated the Ruhr adventure. Thus Germany now is willing to exceed her "utmost"—the offer of 40,000,000,000 gold marks which Germany attempted to have the allies consider at the time of the Paris conference.

It is learned that some party leaders approached Chancellor Cuno, pressing him to make new proposals concerning the Ruhr and the chancellor said that a proposition would be made by Rosenberg in the reichstag.

WARNING BY GERMANS.

Washington, March 1.—The German embassy in a formal statement today declared that should the popularization in the Ruhr, "already severely tried, itself be led to acts of destruction, the German government, owing to the paralysis by the French of the German official apparatus in the Ruhr, will not be in a position to guarantee the maintenance of peace and order in the occupied territory."

An atmosphere of "high tension" has gradually been created throughout the occupied zone, it was stated, which "causes the possibility to be feared that this atmosphere may in the near future lead to explosions."

Text of Statement.

The text of the statement follows: "Owing to the latest events in the Ruhr territory, especially owing to the ever more numerous and brutal expulsions, drastic sentences by courts marital, pillages, and ill-treatments in the streets, and through the oppressions of entire towns such as Recklinghausen, Gelsenkirchen and Bochum, an atmosphere of high tension has gradually been created in the entire occupied territory which causes the possibility to be feared that this atmosphere may in the future lead to explosions.

"The German government still maintains a policy of mere passive resistance as hitherto applied, and in this policy is backed by the unanimous support of the officials and the entire population. Should, however, the population, already severely tried, let itself be led to acts of desperation, the German government, owing to the paralysis by the French of the German official apparatus in the Ruhr, will not be in a position to guarantee the maintenance of peace and order in the occupied territory.

Charm Disorganization.

"How far the German administrative and economic apparatus in occupied territory has been disorganized by the French is shown by the following:

"By order of the commander of the 128th French division, German security police of Essen, Urban and Ruhr districts has been disbanded. Disarming the German security police is also reported from other places, so that the Ruhr is gradually deprived of all its organs of control, which hitherto provided for the safety and peace of the population.

"Expulsions of the following persons took place up to the present time:

"The governor of the Rhine province, all presidents of administrative districts with one exception, the presidents of three main postal districts, of three railway districts, of two finance boards, of two courts of appeal, 40 lord mayors, 31 postal directors, 9 customs directors, 6 directors of the Reichbank, 4 editors of newspapers, 2 secretaries of trade unions, 13 directors general of mining companies. Total 532, besides that approximately 2,000 members of families."

PLAN INTERNAL REVENUE TAX.

Dusseldorf, March 1.—(By the Associated Press.)—Two decisions have been made by the French government in an important bearing on the administration of the Rhineland and the Ruhr by the armies of occupation are announced at French headquarters here. The first is the final step in giving necessary powers to the French and Belgian commanders to administer the German railroads, and the second provides for the collection of an internal revenue tax on tobacco and alcoholic beverages.

In the decree promulgating these decisions the inter-allied high commission's right to operate the railroads along the left bank of the Rhine is turned over formally to the army authorities, partly as a precautionary measure to guarantee the safety of the troops of occupation. The Cologne bridgehead area occupied by the British is not included in these orders. The decree, which is effective immediately, sets forth that the taking over of the railroads is deemed necessary in the public interest in view of strikes by the German railroad employees and the unsettled conditions, generally, and also to assure the residents food and other necessities.

WAGE INCREASE GIVEN MINERS

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Birmingham, Ala., March 1.—With the wage advance to be placed in effect in the Alabama coal mines March 15, the wage increase since May 15 last, affecting 27,000 coal miners, will be approximately 50 per cent. Several thousand iron ore miners are similarly affected.

The Tennessee Coal, Iron & Railroad company has officially announced a wage advance taking effect March 15. The average increase is from 12 1/2 to 15 per cent.

The first wage increase, effective May 15 last, was for 10 per cent. The second increase, effective September 1, was one of 20 per cent. The cumulative increase by March 15, will be approximately 50 per cent.

The independent coal operators have announced their intention of making substantial wage increases effective March 15. The scales are now being worked out and will be announced shortly. The independent operators will follow the lead of the Tennessee company, it is estimated, and pay the same relative wages, according to the amount of coal worked. The wage advance affects between 9,000 and 10,000 workers of the Tennessee company alone.

The Alabama division of the United Mine Workers of America is now working out a scale of wages which they will demand of the mines recognizing the independent operators and the dependent operators are on the open shop basis.

BIG CROWD SEES GEORGIA TECH WIN

ATTENDANCE OF 7,862 BREAKS ALL RECORDS

Al Doonan, chairman of the tournament committee, announced last night that a total of 7,862 paid attendance saw the Tech-Georgia game Thursday night in the city Auditorium. The number sets a new record for southern basketball. The previous record, something over 5,000, was established in 1921 when Tech played Georgia. More than 2,000 persons were turned away. A total of more than 9,000 persons must have witnessed the contest, Doonan stated.

is violently addicted to veracity, when it comes to scores. So that must be correct. Now to go on with the real thing. I would be a human impossibility as a light capable of carrying the figures that far and holding the details of the component parts of the picture would burn up the lenses. No machine then made could carry outlines distinctly over 200 feet.

Water-Cooled Lenses.

"Mr. Porter came to the rescue, saying he could and would build the machine. We worked and experimented night and day, and finally, at a cost of $2,300, he made the great machine, using a water-cooling process to keep the lenses from being destroyed. We have tested it, and it works perfectly. It will carry a needle-arch on a black surface 700 feet, enlarging it in this distance to a width of 9 inches.

Start Within Two Weeks.

Within the next two weeks work of projecting the design will be begun, Mr. Borglum added.

Headquarters of the memorial association is located at the Piedmont hotel here.

"The great Stone Mountain confederate memorial has been the promise, as it has been the hope, not only of all the southland, but of the great north and Europe, which have watched and waited its development as an achievement unsurpassed, unprecedented, as a memorial and as an art undertaking," Mr. Borglum declared.

"The necessary contributing force for its production are, first, the great cooperative effort, sustained and endeavored by the great sacrifices so freely made and suffered, binding the south together in one common spirit.

"Second, the struggle record, the services unsurpassed in history of peoples, producing a list of leaders, world renowned in achievement by the genius they displayed in their struggle against overwhelming odds.

"Third, the south possesses in the very heart of its great territory, a great granite rock, free from erosion, free from all disintegrating conditions common to exposed rock ledges in less temperate climates, which alone makes it possible to create a great piece of sculpture, without fear of loss or deterioration."

and who will carve the great figures, announcing.

Greatest of Memorials.

This meeting will mark the culmination of preparations for what is universally hailed as the greatest memorial undertaking in the world's history, and Mr. Borglum told a Constitution representative Thursday night that all will be in readiness to project pictures of the south's military leaders upon the sides of the great rock by the time of the meeting March 20.

"The granite face of the mountain," Mr. Borglum told listeners all over the United States, "is about 800 feet in height and 5,000 feet in length. The carving will cover about 200 feet in height and 1,100 feet in length, and will include and represent all branches of the confederate army."

"Two hundred feet in height is about equal to a sixteen story building. The figure of Lee reviewing the army on horseback, with Davis and Jackson near him, will be over 90 feet in height from the hoofs of the horse to the top of Lee's hat. The head of Lee's horse will be 30 feet long from the tip of the ear to the end of the nose. Lee's sword will be 28 feet long; his stirrups will be larger than an old-fashioned hoghead. Lee's hat will be 12 feet across the brim, and a man standing on Lee's shoulder needs a step ladder to carve his ear."

Referring to the arrangements to be worked out by the conference here on March 20, Mr. Borglum said that plans for a grouping of general officers of the confederacy as nearly as possible as they served during the war.

"Lee and Davis will naturally be together," he stated, "as will the officers of the army of Virginia. Jackson will be there, and of course Pickett, whose immortal charge at Gettysburg, ordered simply by a hand-clasp from Lee, will be near Lee. Albert Sidney Johnson, Jeb Stewart, Beauregard, Forrest, Joseph E. Johnston, Hood, Wade Hampton, Gordon, Joe Wheeler, Longstreet, Early and Mosby will all be there together. Some plan will be developed to include that intrepid and valiant gentleman and seaman, Admiral Semmes."

Great Memorial Hall.

"At the base of the colossal mountain and memorial, protected by the tall pines, a great hall will be cut in the mountain, 150 feet long, 80 feet in depth and 40 feet to the ceiling. This hall will have 13 openings, 12 of them windows 15 feet wide, and one great door. The windows will represent the separate confederate states. The door will represent Georgia and will be of bronze and glass. Each window will carry the coat of arms of the state it represents.

"The purpose of this great hall and its use is in memorial to the mothers and daughters of the confederacy, and it will be delivered to the Daughters of the Confederacy as the archive for preservation of records of the war between the states."

"These immortal women have preserved these records and it should be put down here that were it not for these women there would tonight be no story given to the world of this great undertaking, for there would be no undertaking under way."

World Asked to Watch.

"The southland announces to all America and to Europe that this great work has come to be true, and invites every American, every lover of great service and great achievement, and all who desire to aid our national art, to follow its production."

Mr. Borglum explained that the gigantic figures will be projected upon the side of the mountain by means of a specially built projection machine invented by S. E. Porter, head of a large cinema manufacturing concern. A film of photographic slides will be sprayed upon the sides of the mountain, and at night the machine will photograph the figures on the sides of the great rock in sections of about 20 feet each. From these photographic diagrams the figures will be traced in the granite.

"The greatest difficulty experienced in working out plans for the memorial," Mr. Borglum said, "was in tracing the gigantic figures. It would be a herculean task to attempt to swing men in cages over the sheer mountain side and draw the pictures, for perspective must be maintained and allowance made for the slope and ruggedness in the granite wall."

"So I conceived the idea of photographing them. I found that in order to get the proper perspective, the pictures must be projected from about 700 feet at a 50 degree angle. When I tried to get a projecting machine capable of doing this, I was told it would be a human impossibility as a light capable of carrying the figures that far and holding the details of the component parts of the picture would burn up the lenses. No machine then made could carry outlines distinctly over 200 feet.

Water-Cooled Lenses.

"Mr. Porter came to the rescue, saying he could and would build the machine. We worked and experimented night and day, and finally, at a cost of $2,300, he made the great machine, using a water-cooling process to keep the lenses from being destroyed. We have tested it, and it works perfectly. It will carry a needle-arch on a black surface 700 feet, enlarging it in this distance to a width of 9 inches.

Start Within Two Weeks.

Within the next two weeks work of projecting the design will be begun, Mr. Borglum added.

Headquarters of the memorial association is located at the Piedmont hotel here.

"The great Stone Mountain confederate memorial has been the promise, as it has been the hope, not only of all the southland, but of the great north and Europe, which have watched and waited its development as an achievement unsurpassed, unprecedented, as a memorial and as an art undertaking," Mr. Borglum declared.

"The necessary contributing force for its production are, first, the great cooperative effort, sustained and endeavored by the great sacrifices so freely made and suffered, binding the south together in one common spirit.

"Second, the struggle record, the services unsurpassed in history of peoples, producing a list of leaders, world renowned in achievement by the genius they displayed in their struggle against overwhelming odds.

"Third, the south possesses in the very heart of its great territory, a great granite rock, free from erosion, free from all disintegrating conditions common to exposed rock ledges in less temperate climates, which alone makes it possible to create a great piece of sculpture, without fear of loss or deterioration."

AFTER 35 YEARS WITHOUT NECKTIE, SOLON SUCCUMBS

Indianapolis, Ind., March 1.—Thomas B. Brown, a representative in the Indiana legislature, wore a necktie Thursday for the first time in 35 years.

The page boys bought it. Brown, the speediest bricklayer in Posey county, was only prevailed upon by the combined pleadings of the boys and various colleagues, who pointed out that it was a "big-bow."

"A four-in-hand might get in the mortar," explained the statesman-bricklayer, explaining his antipathy.

and who will carve the great figures, announcing.

Greatest of Memorials.

This meeting will mark the culmination of preparations for what is universally hailed as the greatest memorial undertaking in the world's history, and Mr. Borglum told a Constitution representative Thursday night that all will be in readiness to project pictures of the south's military leaders upon the sides of the great rock by the time of the meeting March 20.

"The granite face of the mountain," Mr. Borglum told listeners all over the United States, "is about 800 feet in height and 5,000 feet in length. The carving will cover about 200 feet in height and 1,100 feet in length, and will include and represent all branches of the confederate army."

"Two hundred feet in height is about equal to a sixteen story building. The figure of Lee reviewing the army on horseback, with Davis and Jackson near him, will be over 90 feet in height from the hoofs of the horse to the top of Lee's hat. The head of Lee's horse will be 30 feet long from the tip of the ear to the end of the nose. Lee's sword will be 28 feet long; his stirrups will be larger than an old-fashioned hoghead. Lee's hat will be 12 feet across the brim, and a man standing on Lee's shoulder needs a step ladder to carve his ear."

John Roach Straton Here to Rap Infidels

Noted New York Pastor Denies Trend of World Toward Agnosticism. Preaches at Tabernacle Tonight.

BY RALPH T. JONES.

Dr. John Roach Straton, pastor of Calvary Baptist church in New York—and native Georgian—arrived in Atlanta last night for a brief visit. He will deliver his lecture on "The New Infidelity" at the Baptist Tabernacle tonight, leaving immediately afterwards for New York. Dr. Straton has been visiting his old home at Greensboro, Ga., and his son, who is a student at Mercer University. He will deliver only two lectures on the trip, one at the Tabernacle tonight.

Is Fighting Grant.

At the present time he is waging bitter warfare from the pulpit and lecture platform on Dr. Percy Stickney Grant and Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick, other New York ministers, for their rationalistic attacks on many of the fundamental beliefs of Christianity.

Driving from the Terminal station to the home of Judge Hoyer, last night, Dr. Straton vigorously condemned these two preachers for their "expressed views."

"If their 'teachings should triumph,'" he said, "it would mean the end of Christianity, and the substitution of a religion of purely social betterment and welfare work, based entirely on man's own efforts, and ignoring absolutely the belief in the divinity of Christ and the miraculous revelations of the Bible."

Dr. Straton was particularly bitter against what he termed the unethical conduct of these "rationalistic" preachers.

"Worse Than Infidelity."

"These modern infidels—for they are nothing less—haven't even the honesty of old Infidelity. They still wear the guise of shepherds while they lead their unfortunate flocks away from the sheepfold," he said.

Dr. Straton voiced a solemn warning against the modern trend away from the oldtime beliefs of religion and toward agnostic rationalism. He characterized it as the greatest menace to civilized life of the day and warned that should Christianity crumble, it would carry with it into ruin the entire social fabric.

The great preacher then launched into an eulogy of radio broadcasting.

This Wedge Formation

Of Fine Cars Breaks the Line of Resistance

At the moment when the ancient Saxons seemed to stare defeat in the face, Ethelbert and Egbert conceived the idea of wedge formation, and with spears set and mighty effort an overwhelming victory was won. This very interesting story of the Saxons and Danes should convey encouragement in The Constitution's Help-Yourself Club. Look at the "Wedge Formation" of fine cars to be awarded to those who "set their spears and WORK WITH MIGHTY EFFORT." The Saxons did not stop at WISHING for victory—they WORKED for it. AND THEY WERE REWARDED! That is the message we wish to get over to YOU today. Because you may have a lead over some other candidate should not allow you to SLACK UP on your efforts. There may be some WORK RESISTANCE that needs to be broken—just give the "WEDGE" the once over and see what a little LET UP IN YOUR EFFORTS may mean. A few more days remain in the EXTRA VOTES period. Get the benefit of this period, when you will be given 75,000 EXTRA VOTES for every $25 in subscription payments and 3,000 EXTRA VOTES for every dollar over this amount. This second EXTRA VOTES period closes at 9 p. m., March 10. Double your efforts with the TWO SPECIAL AWARDS as an incentive. And remember, you can win one of these Special Automobile Awards in addition to the regular Capital and District Automobile Awards and the District Cash Awards.

DAMON IN TROUBLE

Trying to Free Pythias, Is Arrested Himself.

Sam Thurman, of Rockdale county, called at the United States marshal's office in the federal building Thursday to arrange bond for a friend, only to find that two warrants had been issued for him and that he would be required to make bond himself before he could return home.

Deputy L. E. Bishop began questioning Thurman about a number of people in the Rockdale section, without knowing his name. Finally in the list of queries, Deputy Bishop asked: "Where does Sam Thurman live?" "He lives about six miles from Conyers. You cross a pine log bridge, take the right hand and go about a mile and a quarter and he lives in the third house."

Go where you will in the United States, Canada, Mexico, Cuba or Porto Rico; talk with anyone who has tried it—the number is legion—and you will find an enthusiastic friend of Tanlac. Tanlac produces results and that is where Tanlac scores.

The figures are staggering. It is true, but more than thirty-five million (35,000,000) bottles of Tanlac have been sold in the past eight years and the wonderful demand continues unabated. Upwards of seventy-five thousand well known men and women, hundreds of them living in and around Atlanta, have testified that they owe their health and happiness to the Tanlac treatment, and the list of testimonials grows daily as new tests of its powers are made.

MANY MAIL ORDERS FOR OPERA TICKETS

Out-of-Town Buyers' Rush Indicates More Attendance Than Ever.

Judging by the first rush of mail orders for grand opera season tickets for out-of-town patrons, the line of Atlanta music lovers who wait for the opening of the season ticket sale at the Cable Piano company, on North Broad street, at 9 o'clock Monday morning, will be greater than ever before.

This season ticket sale, which will continue for three weeks, is of great benefit to all who expect to see a majority of the operas for, besides purchasing first selection at the best seats, it also allows the purchase of tickets at a lower scale than that in effect for seats for single performances.

The rush of out-of-town orders, many from other states, is not affected just as much by the season ticket sale as it is by the purchase of seats for single performances. It is the custom of the Music Festival association each year to set aside blocks of seats in each section of the auditorium for the visitors, thus leaving just as good seats for local people as they would get were there no mail orders taken.

Prices this year are the same as last season tickets ranging from $13.75 to $33, including war tax. After the close of the three weeks of season ticket sales, there will be a rest for one week, and then the sale of tickets for single performances will begin, to continue right up to and through the week of grand opera itself.

Combined with the magnificent program which is to be presented this year, the great list of singers, and the steadily increasing prosperity in all parts of the south, it is certain that the 1923 season will surpass all others from a financial standpoint. Therefore it behooves every prospective ticket-holder to make his selection of seats as early as possible, although it is true that the huge size of the auditorium generally leaves plenty of desirable seats later on in the sale.

Cotton Growers Plan Campaign For Members

Association Will Extend Its Activities to Eight Unsubsidized Counties.

Field workers for the Georgia Cotton Growers' Co-operative association opened an intensive membership campaign in new territory on March 1, moving their efforts to eight new counties. These are Telfair, Coffee, Ben Hill, Irwin, Wilcox, Turner, Jeff Davis and Crisp.

The campaign just ended in Tift, Coffee, Berrien, Stewart, Schley, Marion and Webster counties, and which has been in progress since February 1, produced 2,000 new members for the association, who produced in 1922 30,000 bales of cotton.

Advances reports indicate that many new members will sign up in the territory to be worked beginning this month. There are already many members in these counties who joined the association last year, and their satisfaction with the results achieved is so unanimous as to have created a widespread demand for membership among their neighboring planters.

The bankers in all sections visited, according to reports of the workers, are co-operating in the campaign for members to their utmost ability and it is confidently anticipated that vast numbers of Georgia cotton growers will this year join the association in order to secure the benefits of organized action, which can only be enjoyed under the cooperative plan.

The schedule of meetings in the new territory is as follows: March 1, Telfair county, March 2, Coffee county, March 3, Ben Hill county, March 4, Irwin county, March 5, Wilcox county, March 6, Turner county, March 7, Jeff Davis county, March 8, Crisp county. Other meetings will be arranged later.

Construction Work On Massell Hotel May Begin Soon

Construction work on a new twelve-story 200-room commercial hotel, to be built on the southeast corner of Luckie and Cone streets by Ben J. Massell, at a cost of approximately $500,000, will begin within a few days, it was indicated Thursday when Mr. Massell secured a building permit for the structure.

A long term lease on the corner was recently purchased by Mr. Massell from C. R. Cannon. M. L. Hirsch is the owner. The new hotel will be directly opposite the Cecil hotel. Negotiations have virtually been completed whereby the hotel will be leased to out-of-town hotel interests for a period of twenty years, the aggregate rental being approximately $1,400,000, it was stated.

Keenan and Chambers are representing the Massell Realty company in the transaction.

SUTTON TO ADDRESS LEGION'S LUNCHEON

The principal speaker at the American legion's weekly luncheon at the Kimball Hotel today will be Willis A. Sutton, superintendent of the Atlanta public schools. The Henry Thomas Ross post No. 78 will have charge of the program and Evan P. Howell, commandant, will preside. Plans will be made for entertainment of Alvin W. Owsley, national commander of the American legion, who will visit Atlanta March 14.

CARS ARE SOUGHT TO AID FARMERS

Railroads and State Officials Co-Operate to Insure Speedy Transportation of Nitrates.

Commissioner of Agriculture J. J. Brown announced on Thursday that his department was co-operating with the railroads and the federal government in order to secure a sufficient supply of nitrates for the transportation of nitrates from the Old Hickory Powder plant in Tennessee.

This nitrates, amounting to 300 car loads, was purchased by farmers of this state through the recent sale advertised by the war department. It will be recalled that through the efforts of the state agricultural department, the minimum bid which might be made on this nitrates was reduced from $100 to $20 per ton, and an extension of time for the making of bids was also secured. Many Georgia farmers took advantage of this opportunity and it is now important that deliveries of the nitrates be made promptly in order that it may be used at seedling time.

Mr. Brown, assistant freight traffic manager for the Tennessee Central railroad, of Nashville, Tenn., was a recent visitor at Mr. Brown's. Wire was received from the Old Hickory plant Thursday stating that 300 empty cars were needed there at once for the Georgia shipment. Mr. Brown immediately telegraphed to make another visit here on Saturday next, while he is en route to Washington to take up the question of the interstate commerce commission.

CLASSIFIED FREIGHTS GIVEN 'MILEAGE BASIS'

Public Service Commission Order Goes Into Effect on May 1.

Final order was issued Thursday by the public service commission, putting the straight mileage scale of freight rates on all classified traffic in effect on May 1. This followed the first order, issued April 1, 1922, in which a straight mileage scale with filed relationship between the classes was prescribed. This order, however, was held up when the interstate commerce commission reduced rates 10 per cent. The Georgia commission then issued a rule nisi calling on the roads to show cause why the state rates should not be reduced 10 per cent in accordance with the interstate reduction.

In the order issued Thursday, making the revision finally effective, the scale is 10 per cent lower than prescribed in the April 1, 1922, order, and the new scale, effective May 1, will be in line with the interstate rates.

The old system, which has been in effect since the early days of railroading, was known as the basic point system. Under it, rates were made from city to city, whereby rates between two large cities were on a lower scale than those between smaller points. This system has been condemned by the interstate commerce commission and also by the federal congress.

Commissioner Perry, in the fall of 1921, introduced a resolution calling for a general revision of Georgia intrastate rates. Voluminous testimony resulted from the ensuing hearing and the orders for the new system of rate making are the result. After May 1 a shipment of freight will be rated according to its terminal points.

The ruling is considered the most important made on intrastate rates in many years.

Bounty Offered For One Named "Pretty Papa"

Jim Morris, African Sheikh, Wanted on Rome, Ga., Murder Charge.

Governor Hardwick on Thursday offered one hundred dollars for a certain "Pretty Papa." Said individual is reputed to be somewhere in the far north, and it is considered worth the amount offered to secure his return to Georgia.

Here's the "how come" about it. Three years ago, one Jim Morris, alias "Pretty Papa," colored, of Rome, Ga., killed another negro named George Wood. The killing was without provocation and the "Pretty Papa" individual was indicted for murder. But he escaped.

Now, Sheriff R. E. Wilson, of Floyd county, has heard that the wanted man is in a certain northern state and he believes that with the inducement of the one hundred dollar reward, some of his acquaintances will divulge his exact whereabouts. The sheriff asked the governor to post the reward and the governor complied.

Now, it is expected that "Pretty Papa" will shortly return to the scene of his crime and face trial for his crime.

BLANTON TO FACE MURDER CHARGE

Costley Dies After Accusing Young Taxi Driver of Firing Fatal Bullet. Blanton Is Silent.

Detectives were preparing Thursday afternoon to place Henry Blanton, 21, of 317 West Third street, on trial for murder, following the death Thursday morning of A. A. Costley, merchant, who lived on the McDonough road, and who accused Blanton of firing the bullet into his left breast February 19 that caused his death.

The third man that Costley told officers was in the car has so far escaped arrest. When told that Costley had died, Blanton replied that he had nothing to say. "In fact, I know absolutely nothing about the shooting, and am as innocent as you are of shooting him," he told a Constitution reporter.

Costley was found unconscious in Grant park with a pistol beneath him. This was his own gun, he told the police, and claimed that Blanton's friend took it from his pocket, handing it to Blanton, who shot him. He was then robbed of a watch and $10 in money, and thrown from the auto, he stated.

Costley did not know the name of the taxi driver, he told detectives, but stated they would find a check Costley had given for $11 in the driver's pockets; that this check had been turned down for payment by the bank and they were en route to Measure Is Passed by South Carolina House.

Columbia, S. C., March 1.—South Carolina, the only state in the union which has no divorce laws, tonight appeared to be in a fair way to become unique through the passage of an anti-pool and billiard playing law.

The house of representatives of the South Carolina general assembly today passed and sent to the senate a bill prohibiting the operation of any billiard, pocket billiard, pool room or table in South Carolina. The measure was passed by the house after a motion to strike out the enacting words had been lost; a motion to recommit the bill defeated 41 to 57 and another motion to continue the bill until the next session lost by a vote of 51 to 55.

The bill as originally introduced was to regulate and license pool and billiard parlors, but after hot debate and long continued fights on various points was finally amended so that it prohibits the playing of pool or billiards for any purpose, in clubs, home, Y. M. C. A., or in fact anywhere in the state.

Sales of north side property, principally on West Peachtree street, Spring street and North avenue, at prices ranging from $60 to $1,000 per front foot, and totalling over $500,000 were announced Thursday by W. L. and John O. DuPree, local realtors.

A considerable revival of interest in the West Peachtree street section, probably due to the new Biltmore hotel, was indicated in the list of transactions.

Property known as 100-162 West Peachtree street, at the intersection of Baltimore place, was sold for H. J. Carr to a client of the DuPree agency for $85,000. It has a frontage of 93 feet and is about 100 feet deep.

For a consideration of $50,000, or $1,000 per front foot, E. H. Goodhart purchased the northwest corner of Spring and Linden streets, known as 222 Spring street, which he purchased in 1920 for $500 a foot and later resold for $600 a foot. The name of the seller was withheld.

Other sales announced by the DuPree agency were as follows:

GENARO WINS AMERICAN CAWLEY WEIGHT CHAMPIONSHIP

Decision in New York Ring Proves Unpopular to Fans; Bout in Early Rounds Tame

Genaro Used His Right Effectively and Was More Accurate at Punching Than Little Filipino Ring Battler.

New York, March 1.—(By the Associated Press.)—The American flyweight boxing championship title returned to its native shores tonight in historic Madison Square garden, where a capacity crowd saw Frankie Genaro, take it from Johnny Villa, the Filipino who won it from Johnny Buff in Brooklyn last summer. The decision was of the hairline variety. Newspaper critics were divided in their opinion of the justice of the decision. Those who favored it were not enthusiastic and those against it were bitter in their denunciation.

The crowd became demonstrative to an extent that worried the police and squads of blue coats had difficulty in clearing the aisles. It was evident from the start that Genaro's friends were in the majority and they booed Villa when he was escorted to his dressing room.

For two-thirds of the way the fight bordered on snot, but in the last five minutes the mixing was so furious that the spectators were in almost constant uproar.

Caution was the order of the early rounds. The little viry fellows stood facing for long stretches, moving now and again like animals about to spring, and frequently they did leap like cats, but the early damage was negligible.

Villa seemed the more aggressive and his punches seemed as steaming as his challenger's but he was warned more often than the winner for objectionable tactics and once or twice the crowd booed him.

Besides a left hook to the jaw and two-handed digs to the ribs, Villa employed, toward the end of the bout, the "rabbit" punch.

On the whole Genaro was more cautious than his opponent and in the constant exchanges the Filipino seemed at an advantage. But the New Yorker was not so tired nor did he show the effects of punishment that Villa did. Even so the difference was small. Genaro used his right effectively and though he missed frequently his accuracy was greater than Villa's.

The last round probably gave Genaro the title. Twice he hit and caught the Filipino squarely on the jaw and the champion's knee, sagged. But Pancho came back and after a clinch was in a furious exchange when Genaro swung wildly several times and then ducked away from the champion's lead. Villa was the aggressor in several body exchanges which were even, and then bounded off the ropes when Genaro shot a left swing to the jaw.

ROUND ONE—Genaro was the first to land, a right to the jaw. Several times the New Yorker sprang in like a terrier, rushing the champion to the ropes and sinking his left in the ribs. They exchanged left swings to the head. Both men were cautious and Genaro took what offensive there was.

ROUND TWO—They clinched. Genaro swung wildly several times and then ducked away from the champion's lead. Villa was the aggressor in several body exchanges which were even, and then bounded off the ropes when Genaro shot a left swing to the jaw.

ROUND THREE—Villa sprang away when Genaro leaped for him. Genaro sunk his left in the Filipino's stomach after a body exchange. Villa was reprimanded for throwing Genaro against the ropes. Villa led a furious exchange in Genaro's corner.

ROUND FOUR—Villa landed left jabs to stomach and head and catching Genaro along the ropes, pummeled his kidneys. The challenger was warned for butting his head on Villa's chin. Genaro rushed Villa across the ring and the champion toppled outside the ropes. The challenger sent the champion back on his heels with a left to the head. Villa replied with a left that plunged into Genaro's stomach.

ROUND FIVE—Both took hard lefts to the head and clinched. Genaro rushed Villa to the champion's corner with a repeating left to head and body. The champion landed a fusillade on Genaro's torso. Villa shot his left to the challenger's jaw. Both were missing frequently.

ROUND SIX—Villa caught Genaro in a clinch and pummeled both fists into the challenger's ribs. The Filipino had the best of several other exchanges. Genaro rocked him with a left to the head. Villa came back with a two-fisted attack to the head and body. Villa was booed for a back-handed "rabbit" punch.

ROUND SEVEN—So far the bout was slower than anticipated and about even. Genaro got two stiff lefts to the body and one to the head before Villa could return his right to the head. Villa put his left to the body and Villa was using the "rabbit" punch, until the back of Genaro's neck was red. Both men posed a great deal.

ROUND EIGHT—Villa took the lead. He hooked his left to Genaro's head and in the clinch landed effectively to the body. After rushing the challenger to the ropes the Filipino slowed down and missed several long swings. Genaro caught Villa's jaw with a downward left and then shot his left flush to the jaw, but the champion did not stagger. They were dancing at the bell.

ROUND ELEVEN—They sprang at each other like tigers and Villa lifted Genaro off his feet with a left to the jaw. The champion began a slashing two-handed attack and Genaro began to clinch. They exchanged hard swings to the jaw.

ROUND TWELVE—After a body exchange Villa rocked Genaro with a right to the jaw, the challenger replying with a left to the jaw that sent Villa to the ropes. Both men were at it hammer and anvil, rocking each other's heads with uppercuts and swings. Villa landed half a dozen lefts to the jaw in the last half of the round.

ROUND THIRTEEN—Again they jolted each other with lefts to the jaw. Twice Villa rushed Genaro to the ropes and twice Genaro escaped. They exchanged furiously, each digging into the other's body. Villa caught Genaro off his feet and plunged his left to the stomach.

ROUND FOURTEEN—They renewed furious mixing and then quieted down. Several times Villa's left caught Genaro flush on the jaw and the challenger swung wildly. Villa missed an uppercut.

ROUND FIFTEEN—They sprang at each other and when they mixed, dug like triphammers into each other's ribs. Genaro staggered Villa with a right to the jaw and after a respite repeated. Genaro missed an uppercut. Villa rocked Genaro with a right to the jaw. They paced slowly and the bell found them mixing.

UPSTANDING, smooth, permanently white collars. They are pre-shrunk, and banded to insure right fit. They will not wilt, crack or sag. They are easily laundered.

BURKETT TO 'NOOGA CLUB

Birmingham, Ala., March 1.—(Special.)—Howard Burkett, infielder with the Birmingham best season, has been disposed of, Billy West, secretary of the Birmingham club, announces. Burkett goes to Chattanooga, which claimed him from the Barons.

The Lookouts, under the leadership of Les Nannamaker, veteran big league catcher, are staging a campaign to emerge from the cellar during the coming season, and Strang Nickling, owner of the club, has been scouring around for promising material for his manager.

Burkett, Virginia league product—that same little loop that produced such stellar ball players as Pie Traynor and Sam Summa, both with the Pittsburgh Pirates—came to the Southern with a reputation as long as a plumber's time list, and Baron fans expected him to win his way to the big leagues with his sensational playing.

However, Burkett could never quite take first base on his throws from the short field, nor from fielding caused him to be benched.

However, if Burkett corrects his poor throwing, and Strang Nickling held at the rest period. Finally Captain Redd hit his stride and was just about the whole show from that time on, but Barnes made the dopesters gasp for a while.

WILL HISTORY REPEAT ITSELF? Right now the fans are wondering if history will repeat itself tonight when Mercer and Chattanooga take the floor. Last year the Bibb county quintet eliminated the Moccasins—in the third round, we think. But after seeing the Reddmen in perfect form yesterday, it is hard to figure them as losers in this semi-final struggle.

Both showed remarkable teamwork Thursday. Harmon's influence in the Mercer triumph was not as pronounced as it usually is. At least it was not to this writer, who has seen Mercer win a number of battles. The team appeared to have other cylinders working in good shape and Harmon was not called upon often to carry the burden.

Chattanooga worked more as a team than any club we have seen so far. Redd is the Moccasins' ace in the hole, yet when this sterling performer was badly off in the first half, the work he usually accomplishes was done by other players and it was during this time that Chattanooga held its widest margin.

GUARDING FORCED CHANGE IN TACTICS The close watch Virginia Polytechnic guards kept over Redd made it necessary that the load be shifted to other shoulders. Barnes was "right" and sank everything that was fed to him. Alabama had been told to keep an eye on Harmon. The fact that the Crimson players followed orders forced Mercer to uncover someone capable of rolling up points and "Consuello" Smith responded.

All this talk, then, that Chattanooga has only her Redd and Mercer only her Harmon must stop. Other great players are battling for the colors and customers tonight are very likely to witness teamwork as the book says it ought to be done. Dopesters are hard put to nominate a winner, going by yesterday's form. As for this column, it isn't going to attempt the job. It has missed too frequently already.

Given Release. Pittsburgh, March 1.—Robert Harmon, veteran big league pitcher has been released unconditionally by the Pittsburgh Nationals. It was officially announced here today. Harmon retired from the game several years ago to engage in the oil business in his home state of Louisiana. He had been called on by the Pirates' reserve list but recently asked for his unconditional release stating that he wished sever all connection with baseball.

Viewing the News BY CLIFF WHEATLEY

You may add to your list of heroes uncovered in the well-patronized intercollegiate basketball tournament now going on at the Auditorium the name of Barnes. It is a fine old name and its owner is one of the finest basketball players this writer has put his eyes on in a number of years spent at watching southern basketball in action.

Barnes slipped up on the matinee customers yesterday. He is a member of the University of Chattanooga quintet and the only man in this lineup who had drawn a dose of pre-tournament advertising was Bill Redd, who by the way, has made good the predictions that were made concerning the trouble he would cause in the tournament.

PUSHED MR. REDD FOR THE HONORS But Barnes was entirely overlooked. The other day when the Moccasins walked through Georgetown in the second half, one or two of the alleged experts remembered little Barnes and said some nice things about his shooting, but the boys didn't get very enthusiastic. They couldn't take their eyes off Redd long enough to pay much attention to Barnes.

So it was with considerable surprise in yesterday's game that they saw Mr. Barnes push Captain Redd from the spotlight during the first period, his splendid shooting accounting for most of the lead the Moccasins held at the rest period. Finally Captain Redd hit his stride and was just about the whole show from that time on, but Barnes made the dopesters gasp for a while.

WILL HISTORY REPEAT ITSELF? Right now the fans are wondering if history will repeat itself tonight when Mercer and Chattanooga take the floor. Last year the Bibb county quintet eliminated the Moccasins—in the third round, we think. But after seeing the Reddmen in perfect form yesterday, it is hard to figure them as losers in this semi-final struggle.

Both showed remarkable teamwork Thursday. Harmon's influence in the Mercer triumph was not as pronounced as it usually is. At least it was not to this writer, who has seen Mercer win a number of battles. The team appeared to have other cylinders working in good shape and Harmon was not called upon often to carry the burden.

Chattanooga worked more as a team than any club we have seen so far. Redd is the Moccasins' ace in the hole, yet when this sterling performer was badly off in the first half, the work he usually accomplishes was done by other players and it was during this time that Chattanooga held its widest margin.

GUARDING FORCED CHANGE IN TACTICS The close watch Virginia Polytechnic guards kept over Redd made it necessary that the load be shifted to other shoulders. Barnes was "right" and sank everything that was fed to him. Alabama had been told to keep an eye on Harmon. The fact that the Crimson players followed orders forced Mercer to uncover someone capable of rolling up points and "Consuello" Smith responded.

All this talk, then, that Chattanooga has only her Redd and Mercer only her Harmon must stop. Other great players are battling for the colors and customers tonight are very likely to witness teamwork as the book says it ought to be done. Dopesters are hard put to nominate a winner, going by yesterday's form. As for this column, it isn't going to attempt the job. It has missed too frequently already.

Given Release. Pittsburgh, March 1.—Robert Harmon, veteran big league pitcher has been released unconditionally by the Pittsburgh Nationals. It was officially announced here today. Harmon retired from the game several years ago to engage in the oil business in his home state of Louisiana. He had been called on by the Pirates' reserve list but recently asked for his unconditional release stating that he wished sever all connection with baseball.

his left flush to the jaw, but the champion did not stagger. They were dancing at the bell.

ROUND ELEVEN—They sprang at each other like tigers and Villa lifted Genaro off his feet with a left to the jaw. The champion began a slashing two-handed attack and Genaro began to clinch. They exchanged hard swings to the jaw.

ROUND TWELVE—After a body exchange Villa rocked Genaro with a right to the jaw, the challenger replying with a left to the jaw that sent Villa to the ropes. Both men were at it hammer and anvil, rocking each other's heads with uppercuts and swings. Villa landed half a dozen lefts to the jaw in the last half of the round.

ROUND THIRTEEN—Again they jolted each other with lefts to the jaw. Twice Villa rushed Genaro to the ropes and twice Genaro escaped. They exchanged furiously, each digging into the other's body. Villa caught Genaro off his feet and plunged his left to the stomach.

ROUND FOURTEEN—They renewed furious mixing and then quieted down. Several times Villa's left caught Genaro flush on the jaw and the challenger swung wildly. Villa missed an uppercut.

ROUND FIFTEEN—They sprang at each other and when they mixed, dug like triphammers into each other's ribs. Genaro staggered Villa with a right to the jaw and after a respite repeated. Genaro missed an uppercut. Villa rocked Genaro with a right to the jaw. They paced slowly and the bell found them mixing.

'STRIB' WINS BY DECISION

Macon, Ga., March 1.—(Special.) Inability on the part of Johnny Klesch, of Cleveland, Ohio, to accomplish an important part of winning boxing matches cost him a defeat in ten rounds at the hands of Young Stripling here tonight. Klesch couldn't hit his opponent.

Stripling, however, was proficient in this department of the game. Immediately after the first gong sounded he rammed a left to Klesch's nose and kept it there for most of the fight. He was a mile ahead on points at the finish, Klesch not having taken a round.

Klesch may have been a disappointment offensively, but he was a clever dodger. Stripling seemed to have more difficulty in locating him than most men he gets in the ring with. The Cleveland scrapper ducked many aimed blows with agility.

A left by Stripling in the tenth frame sent Klesch hurtling about four feet into the ropes, but he landed on his feet intact and weathered the round, although taking a bad thrashing.

Poyner won a questionable decision from Kid Nappie. Poyner led, but Nappie had him groggy near the end, landing some crashing lefts to the face and body.

MISSISSIPPI CLUB TO ROOT FOR QUINTET Since one of the Mississippi teams is in the semi-finals of the basketball tournament, the Mississippi Society of Atlanta will attend in full force Friday night in compliment to the representatives of their native state.

Boxes and seats have been reserved for this occasion and many followers of Mississippi will be there to give the old-fashioned Mississippi yell for the boys from the Magnolia state.

The officers of the club are Silas W. Davis, president; Joe L. McMillin, vice president; Mrs. John K. Ottley, secretary; Mrs. R. M. Stripling, treasurer; and Wayne Allen, treasurer.

All former Mississippians wishing to join the party and root for the Mississippi team, and who wish to have seats reserved for them will please call Wayne Allen at Walnut 1951 at once.

Dope Spills Over. The two afternoon games of yesterday saw the dope turned upside down again twice in succession. Chattanooga left V. P. I. out in the cold in the first and Mercer spanked Alabama in the second. This brings the list of dope desertions to four for the tourney, Vandy and North Carolina completing the list.

Form Reversals. V. P. I. and Mercer showed an astounding change of form over night, one for the worse and the other for the better. V. P. I. passed beautifully Wednesday night to beat Vanderbilt, and then yesterday afternoon did not pass at all. Time after time they had a man free under the basket lacking but a pass to sack two points, but a dribble in such instances instead beat them. Mercer had showed no stringent defense at all, particularly of the five-man variety. But the last one yesterday with teeth in it. Their strict protection of territory within the foul line boxed Stabler and McGaughey away to distances that were out of range, and was one of the best seen yet.

Second Half Rallies. Both of yesterday afternoon's games were featured by second-half rallies. Mercer outplayed Alabama 17-9, the latter half to win after trailing 14-11 the first half. V. P. I. held Nooga to a 13-12 tally the latter half of their battle, though beaten 25-11 the first half.

Barnes' Fine Work. Barnes, crack Moccasin forward, shot seven field goals the first half of the V. P. I.-Chattanooga game, but was blanked the last. Sutton, V. P. I. guard, got up a new way of getting rid of a man who interposes himself between player desirous of shooting and the basket. Dribbling rapidly down the floor, Sutton was suddenly confronted by Cate, star 'Nooga guard, right under the rim. Taking the ball in both hands he gave it a violent push into Cate's tunnel, toppling the tall picket backward to the floor, but in the recoil Sutton lost the ball and got no goal after all.

Too Much Harmon. Too much Harmon! That beat Alabama. Though the plump Mercer guard was given minor attention by the Alabama team he got loose for 14 points, three goals from the field and 7 of 11 fouls. It is indeed a star who can score half one team's points when under constant surveillance of the opposition.

Alabama Off Form. Alabama looked off form as she lost to Mercer. The loss of Carter, star center, chased with four personal fouls in the first half contributed to Alabama's downfall. Carter was the only Capstone boy who was in shooting form. He got three of the six field goals scored by Alabama early in the game. Besides being off in their shooting, though both sides had poor luck in this respect—failure to follow up on shots as they had been doing and dislike of any one to dribble down the floor before the effective Mercer defense formed, was expensive to 'Bama. Alabama was allowed but two field goals and five fouls in the latter half. Prep League Quints Will Resume Schedule Today

Boys' High and University, Tech High and G. M. A. to Meet in Feature Games of Today.

BY ROY E. WHITE. This afternoon at 2:30 o'clock the city prep league will resume athletic relations between each other after a two weeks layoff. The renewing of the schedule will bring together a recently crowned champion and a leader of the league, in Boys' High and University. The games will be played on the tournament court in the City Auditorium and the charge will be 25 cents. Basketball followers in the city for the big tourney will have a chance to see two Atlanta prep champions in action.

The complete afternoon card is Commercial High and Marietta at 2:30 o'clock; Fulton vs. G. M. A. at 3:30 o'clock; Boys' High vs. University at 4:30 o'clock, and Tech High and Decatur at 5:30 o'clock.

The G. M. A. champions of the Cotton States tourney in Atlanta, will play the Fulton team. The cadets are favored over the Fulton team since Fulton has lost eight straight games.

Boys' High, champions of the G. I. A. A., will play University school which is in a tie with Tech High for the leadership of the city loop. The Smithies will have a comparatively easy game with Decatur High.

Boys' High Meets University. Considerable noise will be brought forth when Boys' High and University take the floor, for the Boys' High team, inspired by the recent victory over Tech High followed by the championship battle over Lanier High, is fighting with its back to the wall and anything is liable to happen. On the other meeting between the two University was winner in a hair-raising scrap of only two points difference and the game this afternoon promises to be just as close.

The playing in the prep league this afternoon will be much better than that of the last appearance two weeks ago. G. M. A. has been playing a wonderful game of late and Boys' High has picked up considerably. Tech High and University seem to be playing the same brand of ball that was exhibited during the early part of the season. Upsets in the prep league have been constant. Either team has an excellent chance of winning. University was ruled the favorite several weeks ago, but whether or not the "Bluebirds" are prepared to give Boys' High the battle of the year is uncertain. University showed signs of staleness in Macon, but a week has been given to rest and the rest may prove very helpful. On the other hand the Boys' High team has just started on a rally that may run until the season is over.

It will be the first appearance of the two Atlanta champions on a local court and a good crowd of basketball followers is expected to turn out to witness the quartet of games.

G. M. A. Is Dark Horse. Many followers of the prep league will be keenly interested in the G. M. A. team, one that started the season off with four straight losses, and with the acquisition of "Bill" Hearn, the six-foot end, the cadets have proved the dark horse of the league. G. M. A. trounced Tech High and University on successive nights in the Cotton States tournament and Coach Wright's men have also been inspired with the victories. They have confidence now and the fighting spirit has been aroused and the G. M. A. cadets will be a hard combination to beat in the remaining four games on the schedule.

Hard luck seems to have struck the prep league and its coaches. Captain Breck had an injury to his eye in the Tech High-Riverside game in Macon. A Riverside man struck Breck in the act of spinning around and Breck took a few minutes time out. He resumed play but later in the night he became hysterical and two eye specialists were summoned. The doctors stated that the eyeball had been scratched and there would be no danger. Since his return to Atlanta the eye has been little sight, and the doctors have little hope of it returning. Breck has been practicing only one or two days with the team and will probably not see much service the remainder of the season. Early in the season Breck was ill with the flu and lost two weeks of the basketball season.

BY HOMER GEORGE.

Georgia Tech got revenge last night on the University of Georgia for that defeat handed them in 1921 when the Red and Black put the locals out of the tournament. And strange as it may seem, the difference in points at the end of the contest was exactly the same. The score was: Tech, 27; Georgia, 22.

It was a red hot game, full of fine spinning play, with Tech holding the advantage most of the way. In the first half they had all the better of it, and in the second Georgia turned into a whirlwind and came within three points of tying the score before Tech got started again. The Red and Black seemed entirely different from the team in this half and played like demons.

The game was a replica of the Georgia A. A. C. game this season at the auditorium in so far as the style of play used by Georgia was concerned. In the first half of that game Georgia played a slow, calculating style—only she never calculated well. In the second half she played a wild sort of game, taking all kinds of chances and gave the clubs a battle. Last night it was the same way.

In the first half Georgia made one lone field goal last night and really missed but few were her chances were good. Her players did not seem to be going at all, though fighting hard all the way. But in the second half they came out and took battle into their own hands and of allowing Tech to do this, they never waited for Tech to get set in a defense, as in the first part of the game they never let Tech get set through as in the opening. It was different team in play, at least.

Tech played a fine game in both halves. Her men had dash and go and fight and they pushed their chances to the afternoon. The Georgia five-man defense was not working good in the initial stages of the struggle and the Red and Black were letting Baby Roane set for his tosses. Likewise Joe Eckford was allowed to get more or less close to the basket. And this meant disaster, for no two men in the tournament are more dangerous at tossing goals than these two men; they are permitted to stop and set themselves.

As a result of this character of play on the part of Georgia and the accuracy of both Roane and Eckford, coupled with a fine defensive play by every Tech man, the first half worked out a runaway for the locals, ending with a total of 16 points for Tech and 7 for Georgia. All of these sixteen Tech points were from field goals except two, while Georgia had only two points from a floor shot, the others coming from fouls.

When the ball was first thrown into the air by Referee St. John, he heard Roane to the tip off and Georgia got the ball. After a half minute of furious play during which each tried for a field goal, Roane caught in a comparatively short distance and down it went. Eckford repeated with a second.

Both teams were playing like a lot of wild men, taking all kinds of chances and showing all kinds of speed. A series of plays and passes gave the ball to Matheson near the Georgia basket, but to one who had a chance for a field goal, he dropped it for a field goal. Baby Roane got another field goal and Tech's supporters breathed a bit more freely, but it did not last long for Williams came through with a double counter from the floor, following a goal from the foul line. Georgia seemed to still have a chance, but it was almost ruined just afterwards when Denicke scored a field goal, followed shortly thereafter by another by Roane.

At this stage of the game the score stood 25 for Tech against 18 for Georgia. Coach Alexander thought it an opportune time to get in fresh men and he sent Brewster and Jenks back in the game to replace Denicke and Matheson. Clark managed to get the ball after a series of passes and dropped a pretty field goal. Then good old Al Stator, who was a war horse on defense, managed to loop one of his long throws through the basket for the best score by Tech. Georgia continued her fight and Clark got another field goal before the end of the game. The firing of the gun ended it. Tech 27, Georgia 22.

Incidental to the game the fact that Georgia was beaten by only the same margin as she won from Tech seems to bring a bit of consolation to the followers of the Red and Black. At the time of the first meeting the conditions of hope and play favored Georgia and this season Tech was favored. Incidentally it was figured that the margin between the two was the same as this year—that is Tech was not thought to be the favorite to have a chance then and Georgia was not thought to have a chance this year.

And there you are. It was a great spectacle with a great crowd on hand and no one believes he did not get more than his money's worth.

BY HENRY ALLEN.
The Mississippi Aggies encountered expected opposition at the hands of the rugged University of Mississippi quintet in the first game of last night's program, but brilliant teamwork on the part of the Aggies pulled them through to a 33 to 25 victory.

Perkins of the Aggie five was the first to score with a shot from the free throw line, while Norris, his and field goal shortly after this and the score stood 4 to 1. Georgia got a point on a foul and Tech did the same.

Jimmy Brewster got the ball far down the court and by a brilliant series of dribbles got near the basket and dropped a field goal. Eckford got another chance at a short throw and downed it, after which Baby Roane shot another. Meanwhile, Georgia had added two more foul goals, putting the score at 11 to 4. Another foul goal was made by Tech and then Georgia got her first field goal of the half when Butler shot one through the basket. Baby Roane was allowed to get set twice more during the half and each time he came through with a field goal. It looked like a slaughter for Georgia and her followers were thankful for the end of the half, with the score standing 16 to 7 against them.

Fresh Players Go In.

After about two-thirds of the first half Coach Alexander, following his usual custom, sent Matheson in for Jacobs and Denicke for Brewster. The latter played a brilliant, flashy game and twice stole the ball away from Georgians as they were dribbling towards their goal. He showed more speed in such flashes than any man on the floor and set the Tech supporters wild. He was responsible for one field goal during this half, getting it early in the game when he made the Tech score seven points.

The second half found the Georgia line-up unchanged and the same substitution for Tech as were playing when the half ended. But it was a different Georgia team in fight; in taking chances and carrying the battle to the enemy. They did not wait until Tech prepared a defense and then plunged right at the basket with a lot of fine passing and fast dribbling. And when they went after the Tech Tech supporters knew what was happening. Georgia had started scoring.

In fact, they made six points before the Tech defense found it and the crowd knew there was a battle being fought. Shortly after the second half opened Butler dropped a field goal from the field and he was followed by a foul goal and then Williams rushed the Tech defense and dropped in another field goal. Then a double counter from the floor gave Tech the lead and Georgia, who had been playing as one of the guilty parties that this was the fourth personal foul against the Georgia star and he was forced from the game after much consultation and questioning of the correctness of the Georgia players. It is said that this Georgia player, who was called Gurr, had been forced from a game on account of personal fouls.

The removal of Gurr seemed to affect the Tech players a bit, as he has always been held the star point maker this season. However, Richardson went in and Joe Bennett, who was the first to make the game continued. Up to this time Tech had not scored in this half and Georgia was just three points back of Tech. In the following Tech's removal of Gurr a foul was called against Georgia before any other scoring was done and Roane added a point to Tech's score by Bennett's shot.

Joint Conference of S. I. C. And S. I. A. A. Officials Today

Freshman Rule, Summer Baseball and Migratory Rule Will Be Discussed at Meeting.

BY JOHN STATOR.

The officials of the Southern Intercollegiate Conference and Southern Intercollegiate Athletic association will meet in executive session at the Piedmont hotel today at 1 o'clock. The meeting is held every year during the basketball tourney.

Two matters of great importance are to be brought up for discussion, and if possible, adjustment. The first of these is summer baseball. The second is the much vexed question of freshman status as regards football.

The S. I. C. has made and passed a positive regulation in regard to summer baseball, and the S. I. A. A. has independently done the same thing. Inasmuch as the two rules are permissible in their definition of what is permissible in summer baseball, it was decided to hold the meeting in order that a ruling might be formulated which would equally affect both organizations. An effort will be made to draw up a statute concerning summer baseball, and to have that statute adopted simultaneously by both the S. I. C. and the S. I. A. A.

Freshman football will perhaps give the most trouble of the two questions. The S. I. C. has passed a ruling prohibiting freshmen from becoming candidates for any varsity team. No freshman is allowed to be a candidate for either the football, basketball, track, or baseball teams.

A man is defined to be a freshman until he has passed up a full year's work, or an equivalent number of hours.

Now, the S. I. A. A. has no ruling prohibiting freshmen from playing on varsity teams. Most of the schools in the S. I. A. A. are of small student body, and could hardly afford to give up their freshmen and still compete with the larger institutions.

Teams under the jurisdiction of the S. I. C. every year are playing teams which are under the ruling of the S. I. A. A. In meetings of this kind, the S. I. C. members are at a decided disadvantage inasmuch as they are not allowed to use any of their freshmen.

So, an effort will be made to reach some harmonious opinion on the subject. It seems fair that either one of two things should be done. Either allow an S. I. C. team to play its freshmen when meeting an S. I. A. A. team, or prohibit an S. I. A. A. team from using its freshmen when meeting an S. I. C. team.

The migratory rule, which many thought dead and buried will be another bug in the rug which necessarily must be thrashed out. So, altogether, it ought to be a fairly lively session.

J. P. C. WINS FAST GAME

The Atlanta Jewish Progressive club basketball team defeated their fellow clubmen from Savannah Thursday night, 38 to 27, in a fast game played at the club gymnasium on South Pryor street.

The visitors jumped into the lead during the first few minutes of the first half, and maintained their margin until a few minutes of the whistle, when Atlanta, rallying around Dorfan and Fieldberger, virtually rushed the Savannah team off its feet. The period ended 16 to 13, Atlanta's favor. Savannah launched a vicious attack in the last half. Their star left forward, Gittlesohn, and their stellar guard, Eisenberg, causing the Atlanta a great deal of trouble. Many times during the period, Savannah threatened to take the lead, only to have their efforts thwarted by splendid teamwork and air tight defense of the local club. The game ended with a beautiful display of teamwork on the part of Atlanta. Both periods were bitterly fought.

The Line-up:
ATLANTA (38) Pos. SAV'N (27)
Finkstein (4) Gittlesohn (8)
Fieldberger (14) Rosolio (3)
Dorfan (18) Freidman (4)

BING MILLER TO CONFER WITH CONNIE

Montgomery, Ala., March 1.—Bing Miller, the slugging competitor for Babe Ruth's home run title in last year's campaign, is coming to the Athletics camp here without having signed a contract and is willing to pay his traveling costs if he fails to come to terms. Miller is the only regular member of the 1922 Athletics who hasn't yet signed.

Connie Mack, manager of the team, on his arrival with the main squad, said by note from Miller saying he would come down to talk business with the chief, mainly concerning a raise. But Miller added, if they fail to agree, then Mack needn't trouble to refund his expenses. This was taken to mean that there isn't much chance of their failing to agree.

Mac believes his prospect this year are brighter than at any time since he broke up his famous old team.

New York, March 1.—The world's featherweight title bout between Eugene Criqui and Johnny Kilbane will be held at the Polo Grounds, as originally scheduled, it was announced today by Tom O'Rourke, promoter.

The change was necessitated, he said, by the fact that the New York Giants have a double header scheduled on their home grounds for the holiday.

Redd and Barnes Are Stars For Tennesseans; Harmon Shines in Mercer's Battle

Trailing at End of First Half, Mercer Launches Savage Attack in Second And Wins By 28 to 23 Score.

BY HENRY ALLEN

Locked like a couple of young wildcats, the quintets of Mercer university and the University of Alabama went to a decision in one of the hardest fought games of the southern basketball tournament yesterday afternoon, and a rally led by George Harmon, sensational running guard of the Mercer five sent them to a brilliant 28 to 23 victory over the powerful Crimson five.

Alabama was leading at the end of the first half 14 to 11, but with "Slim" Carter, the lanky center, out of the game Mercer came back full of confidence. Field goal by Harmon, Smith and Wilkes tied the score and another from the hands of "Red" Simmons tipped in from the jump. From then they were never headed.

The elimination of Carter played a prominent part in the Mercer victory, for the big boy was all over the court at once and dropping them through without touching the ring. Carter's fouls were coming thick and fast and it was evident that the big boy would not be able to remain the entire time of the game. While Carter was playing he dropped in three pretty ones from the field.

McGaughey, the forward who has played such brilliant ball during the tournament, was only able to drop one through from the field, while the remainder of the Alabama points came from McClintock and Propst.

Harmon Leads Scoring.
Although Harmon missed many of his tries for the basket, he was the star in the scoring for Mercer, having 14 points in the official score. Six of these came from the field, while the remainder were made by the foul route.

"Consuello" Smith, played great ball for the Mercer team and was all over the floor at once. He was put of the game in the last few minutes of play because of personal fouls, but scored 8 points for his team.

Gidden Wilkes also got into the fight and although being handicapped by the size of the Alabama quint, played great ball. Wilkes' floor work was one of the features of the game.

The Line-ups:
MERCER (28) Pos. ALA. (23)
Smith (6) Stabler (17)
Simmons (4) McGaughey (2)
Gamble (2) Carter (6)
Harmon (14) Hudson (2)
McWilliams Propst (2)
Referee Fisher, Umpire Sutton, substitutes, Mercer, Pope for Smith (2); Wilkes for Gamble; for Alabama, Leake for McClintock; McCarter for Leake.

CHATTANOOGA 38
VIRGINIA POLY 23.
BY HOMER GEORGE
Bill Redd and his crew of basketball players from the University of Chattanooga pulled something of a surprise yesterday afternoon when they took the fast V. P. I. team and ran them ragged to win by the lop-sided score of 38 to 23. It was a fast game with Chattanooga showing the more skill all the way. V. P. I. lacked the speed of Wednesday night and was badly off in shooting. On the other hand, Chattanooga had speed and was deadly accurate when it came to tossing the old ball.

During the game Carter, for Chattanooga, suffered a very hard fall and was all but knocked out thereby. However, he recovered quickly and continued play. Barnes was the only man who had to leave the game, going out in the second half after four personal fouls had been called on him. Hackett replaced him and proved a fine substitute. During his stay in the game Barnes showed himself one of the sweetest forwards in the tournament and was especially clever in getting near the basket for chances at goals. And he was a bear at these chances, scoring 7 in the first half for the majority of points made by his team.

The score:
CHAT. (38) Pos. V. P. I. (23)
Hill (2) Rutledge
Barnes (14) Carroll (4)
Redd (22) Brittingham (4)
Tyler Rhoades (17)
Cate Rhoades (17)
Substitutes for Chattanooga—Hackett for Barnes; for V. P. I.—Fivel for Rutledge. Goals from fouls: Redd 6 out of 11; Rhoades 11 out of 14. Referee, Yates; umpire, Fischer.

M'CLELLAND HEADS ELKS OF ATLANTA

Exalted Ruler Re-Elected Without Opposition. 197 New Members Approved at Meeting Thursday Night.

Judge L. F. McClelland was formally re-elected as exalted ruler of Atlanta lodge No. 78, P. P. O. Elks, at the regular meeting of the lodge on Friday evening. He has already served one term in this capacity, and his re-election last night was without opposition and by acclamation.

At the same time, the following officers for the coming year were also chosen: Esteemed loyal knight, Wynne Allen; esteemed loyal knight, Frank Baumgartner; esteemed lecturer, the knight, P. L. Potomac; secretary, R. C. Boyles; treasurer, R. B. Cunningham; Tyler, W. B. Cummings; trustee, John S. McClelland; grand lodge representative, Judge L. F. McClelland; alternate representative, Theo. Mast.

Bob McJannet and Secretary Boyles have played a prominent part in the promotion of convention affairs, and their re-election was taken as a matter of course for some time. They have also been largely responsible for the very successful progress of the present membership campaign.

A feature of the meeting was the election of 197 new members to the order. Included in the list were some of the most prominent citizens of Atlanta, including: Dr. Joseph Jacobs, Edgar Dunlap, J. P. Allen, Thomas W. Connally, Judge L. Z. Rosser, Jr., W. A. Speer, Bora Allen, Jr., of Buford; William C. Dickey, Edwin R. Haas, G. Arthur Howell, J. R. Regan, W. Gordon Burnett, Joseph N. Hirsch, J. R. Byrd, T. P. Galt, N. C. N. Davis, C. T. Dunham, Dr. Thomas H. Hancock, Wiley Jones, Louis T. Miller, Leo Stillman, W. D. Hoffman, William M. Adams, and many others of equal prominence in the business and professional life of Atlanta and adjacent towns.

The new additions bring the total membership of the lodge well along towards the 3,000 mark and make it practically certain that the goal of 5,000 members for which the present campaign is working will be reached before the convention period.

Mrs. Al H. Martin, singer, and other artists contributed to an entertainment program.

BIG GIFTS SOLICITORS OF ARMY DRIVE MEET

Salvation Army Will Try to Raise Funds From the Wealthy People.

All members of the advisory board of the Salvation Army in Atlanta, met at 8:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon at the chamber of commerce to present their "big gifts solicitors" who will take part in the campaign for funds which starts in April.

P. S. Arkwright, president of the advisory board, has mailed letters to all members urging them to be on hand at the meeting with their full quotas of five solicitors each.

A list of 500 wealthy citizens of Atlanta has been compiled for use at the meeting. These prospective contributors, it was announced, will be divided among the "big gifts solicitors" who will call on them with the view of securing subscriptions before the actual campaign for funds open in April.

The decision of the advisory board to form this big gifts committee was reached at a recent meeting when a report of funds used by the Salvation Army in Atlanta last year disclosed that only about $23,000 was expended, which amount is considered far below what is actually needed to take care of the three institutions of the charity organization in the city.

The Salvation Army maintains the emergency home for women and children at 80 East Ellis street, the city-wide relief and religious home, 41 Rockwell street and the men's industrial home, 271 Luckie street. The latter institution is self supporting, although it handles hundreds of charity cases each year.

DR. LEE K. FRANKEL SPEAKS HERE SUNDAY

Insurance Company Executive to Tell of Experiences in Suffering Europe.

Dr. Lee K. Frankel, vice president of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co., who spent last summer in Europe as the head of a commission sent by American Jewry to ascertain the extent of suffering caused by the war and its aftermath, will deliver an address at the Temple Temple morning at 11:15 o'clock.

Dr. Frankel and his commission visited Austria, Hungary, Poland, Latvia, Lithuania, Roumania, Turkey

DR. LEE K. FRANKEL, American Jewish Relief Commissioner and Russia and witnessed the distress brought to residents of those countries by the war. Details of the tour will be related in his address Sunday morning. The public is invited to attend the lecture.

Dr. Frankel is an eloquent speaker and is thoroughly acquainted with the topics which he will discuss. He will touch on the relief work being done by the joint distribution committee, which has been furnished funds from America, and will explain what this organization should do in regard to the millions of starving men, women and children of Europe.

Dr. Frankel declares that the pressing problem found by his commission in Europe was that of war orphans. There are 400,000 such orphans in the Ukraine, he states, and the committee is feeding 300,000 of them daily. The American-Jewish joint distribution committee, he reports, is making every effort to cope with this terrible problem, but it can operate only as funds are furnished by American Jewry.

Another great problem, says Dr. Frankel, is the tens of thousands of refugees who were driven from their homes as the contending armies advanced or retreated across Europe. The survivors of that dreadful exodus, he states, are huddled in concentration camps filled with sick and dying men, women and children.

The greatest problem, he declares, is that of Russia, where 2,000,000 human beings are starving and freezing this winter, because of failure of crops.

LOSERS AT HANDS OF BUNCO GANG CANNOT COLLECT

People who claim that they were losers at the hands of Atlanta's famous "bunco" gang, cannot secure financial redress by seizure of property owned by alleged members of that gang, according to a ruling handed down Thursday by the Georgia supreme court.

The ruling was given in the suit of William R. Manning, alleged to have lost $8,100 against W. Clyde Smith and his wife, and Floyd Woodward, in which for the benefit of himself and other alleged losers through operations of the bunco syndicate, Manning sought to confiscate a home owned by Mrs. Smith, as well as an automobile, also her property.

The court held that inasmuch as the main property involved the home at 832 West Peachtree, purchased on April 14, 1910, and the alleged losses of Manning did not occur until January, 1920, his money could not have been used to make this purchase.

FACTORY PLANT IS INSPECTED BY CIVIC CLUB

This is the first of a series of tours planned by the junior chamber to enable its members to become acquainted with the various industries located in Atlanta. Kenneth S. Keyes is in charge of arrangements.

Police Hunt Driver of Car That Hit Irving Senzel Thursday Morning and Speeded Away.

Police Thursday night were searching for the driver of the automobile that struck and seriously injured Irving Senzel, 2-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. M. B. Senzel, 173 Woodward avenue, about 11 o'clock Thursday morning at Washington and Clarke streets.

After injuring the little boy, the driver stopped and picked him up, handing him to a negro girl that was passing and directed that she take him home. He then got back in his machine and sped off without leaving his name and no one got the license number of the car, so far as determining the identity of the driver, police have been able to learn.

Mrs. Senzel rushed her boy to the Atlanta hospital, where examination by surgeons showed a leg and hip fractured, in addition to possible internal injuries.

Call Officers N. E. Pittman and N. P. Barker, who were dispatched to the home immediately after the accident, could find no one that could furnish any value in information.

E. N. Moffett, of 100 East Fifteenth street, who was seriously injured late Wednesday evening when struck by an automobile operated by Miss Elizabeth Buchanan, of 1211 Peachtree street, Thursday night, was reported to be in an improved condition.

COMMISSION ORDERS PRISON LASH BANNED

Conference of Wardens Called to Consider Other Disciplinary Measures.

An order putting into effect Governor Hardwick's ban against the use of the lash in Georgia prison camps was issued Thursday by the prison commission, at its first meeting since the issuance of the governor's orders.

At the same time a conference of county commissioners and wardens, to confer upon other means of handling obnoxious prisoners, was called to be held in Atlanta on March 22.

Some wardens have complained to the commission that since the promulgation of the governor's edict against flogging they are having trouble in handling unruly convicts and in making them work upon the roads. These wardens have asked for suggestions as to substitute form of punishment and the commission thought the best means to handle this situation would be through such a conference as that called.

"Better See if the Motor Needs Oil"

Get in the habit of saying this to your dealer whenever you stop for gasoline, water or air. Remember, that the only way you can tell whether or not your motor needs oil is; first, by the simple way of looking at the gauge, and second, by the expensive way of finding out too late that cylinders have been scored and bearings burned thru your forgetting to keep up the supply of oil.

Sufficient quantity, the right quality, the proper weight or grade of oil, and the replacing of oil after it has been worn out by six or seven hundred miles of running—these are the important things to watch; and, given proper attention, you can avoid the bother and expense of most motor troubles.

Be safe—be sure—and be satisfied by putting nothing in your crank case but

THE VITAL FLAME

BY MAY CHRISTIE

A Stirring Serial of Primitive Passions

WHO'S WHO IN THE STORY.
Marcella Field, well bred and beautiful, believed to be worldly, crossing the Atlantic from America to England, is strongly attracted by Miles Holden, a handsome young sculptor, who falls in love with her and conceals it. He suggests that something is wrong in her decision and his guests to right, for until she had met him Marcella had about made up her mind to accept the wealth and prestige offered her by marriage to Warwick Treman, a power in the financial world.

CHAPTER II.

The pursuit had started just four years ago when Marcella was 18. She had met him at the winter sports in Switzerland. Whether she would actually have accepted him or not, was a moot point in her own mind. But—being storm-stayed one night in a lonely mountain hut with Treman, after a moonlit skiing expedition of which her chaperon was unaware—Marcella had agreed to the announcing of their engagement, believing that the bond would only last long enough to satisfy the gossip.

Since then, the courtship had been intermittent, due to the fact that Marcella had pursued her career as a sculptor. Treman's business interests had taken him on protracted trips to various parts of the globe.

But the man's ardour and determination had not cooled, and these New York and Long Island visits had been looked upon by him as Marcella's final bow to girlhood ere she entered the bonds of matrimony with himself. It was time the affair was settled, and Marcella was really much too pretty and attractive to hop any longer on the single twig. All men were poachers, but it would go ill with anyone who tried to poach on his preserves. . . . here Warwick Treman's jaw would set with the bulldog look his business opponents knew so well.

"Only two days until we land," Miles Holden's pleasant voice cut into her meditations. "It's been a marvelous trip for me." A wistfulness lay in the words that made his listener's heart leap with a new hope. Was it possible their interviews had meant anything to him?

"You took New York by storm," said she demurely, purposely misunderstanding. "Every front page had your photograph, and the reporter's adjectives were so ecstatic that their repertoire was really taxed to the limit, and—"

"I don't mean that," he interrupted hurriedly, for praise of his work made him feel awkward as a school-boy. Besides, he longed (yet feared) for her to know just how he felt. "It's the voyage—and meeting you—that's been so wonderful. Your sympathy—and our talks—they've counted so much more than the New York success, gratifying of course as that has been—"

His sky stammering told a truer tale than all the glib phrases of Warwick Treman. And the girl's heart thrilled within a boom that, after all, was neither cool nor calculating nor as worldly as she once had thought it was.

"I'm glad," she murmured, unconscious that she moved a shade nearer her companion, so that the wind swept a tendril of her curly hair across his cheek, and an electric current flowed from her slim young body through the point of contact at his shoulder and, so, straight to his heart, causing a tumult there that never after could die down—Marcella! "It has been wonderful—Marcella!" The words escaped from him almost against his own volition. His big brown hand—with the sensitive, beautifully-formed fingers of the sculptor—closed over the small white one that clung so tightly to the railing.

The blood humming in her ears was an accompaniment to the song which the blue bird of happiness was caroling in her breast. She had never lived before. The great miracle was coming, coming. . . . Life so gay and amusing—had been merely a long waiting for this glorious climax.

Then, like a black cloud blotting out the sunshine of her mood, arose a queer and eerie premonition, and she shivered, starting with lovely, troubled eyes focussed far ahead into the gathering dusk.

"Have you 'second sight,' Marcella? What do you see?" Miles Holden knew that this girl's mother, long since dead, had come from a lonely island in the Outer Hebrides, and perhaps the Celtic 'sixth sense' had been bequeathed to her?

Marcella shivered, then said queerly, cryptically:

"All I can see is the storm, about us—and a bigger storm ahead."

Two hours later, in the confines of her pretty stateroom on the promenade deck, Marcella tried to dress for dinner—a none-too-easy feat with the four walls jangling up and down, the toilet articles on her dressing table running like startled crabs in all directions, and the floor rising and falling like an elevator with the accelerating button pressed hard on. She struggled into a filmy frock of blue georgette, fastened a little diamond-studded watch upon her wrist, slung round her neck a slim chain of platinum from which hung a large, gleaming diamond, then—as a great wave slammed against the thick glass of her stateroom window—gave up the struggle and, ringing for her stewardess, informed the latter that she would have a little something in her cabin, and not go down to the saloon for dinner.

It was good to be alone, to think over the miracle that had occurred. Miles Holden had not said so, in so many words. . . . but love had surely shone in those fine blue eyes of his.

Marcella started as a queer, stifled little sound of sobbing came from the next stateroom. It was a woman's voice, although it sounded almost like some tiny animal in pain.

Marcella listened. The tenant of the cabin had been looked askance at, by the other women on the ship. A "man's woman," and of the wrong kind, she had been dubbed. Certain it was she was associated with a band of crooks who were plying their trade in the card room of the vessel every night, and on till the small hours of the morning. "Peroxide blonde," "adventuress" and worse—the ultra-virtuous and back-biting ladies who adorn the passenger list on most Atlantic crossings had taken pleasure in the exchange of epithets anent the thin, nervous, gorgeously-attired little woman with the strained expression on her face.

But Marcella had felt sorry for her. The sobbing didn't stop, and the girl rose at last, and gave a tentative tap upon the panel of the communicating door—then tried the handle, which gave under the pressure, revealing a dramatic little picture in the room beyond. In a kimono which, trailing off one shoulder, revealed a big bruise, and huddled desolately on the floor with her blonde head upon the day couch, was the peroxide little lady who for many days had afforded gossip to the "tabbies" of the ship.

"I'm so sorry. Can I help you? What's the matter?" stammered Marcella, taken aback. Was soul-sickness or sea-sickness at the root of the affair? Another interesting installment tomorrow. (Copyright, 1923. The Constitution.)

"The Little Nugget"

BY P. G. WODEHOUSE

Next Week, "The Sea Bride"
By Ben Ames Williams

"Well, if that's the case, let there be no secrets between us. He's asleep in the next room."

"Young man, this is a critical moment. Let me in on this, and leave the negotiations with old man Ford to me. You would only make a mess of them."

"It's very good of you, but there won't be any negotiations with Mr. Ford. I am taking the boy back to Sanstead."

It is a human weakness to wish to convince those who doubt us, even if there opinion is not intrinsically valuable. I remembered that I had Cynthia's letter in my pocket. I produced it as "exhibit A" in my evidence, and read it to him.

"I see," he said. "Who wrote that letter?"

"Never mind! A friend of mine. I was going to have sent him over to Monaco, but I altered my plans. Sometimes interfered."

"I might call it conscience—if you know what that means."

"And you are really going to take him back to the school?"

"I am."

"We shall travel back together," he said.

"Do you mean to say," I demanded, "that you have the nerve to come back to Sanstead?"

"You entertain some idea of exposing me to Mr. Abney? Forget it. Would he believe it?"

I had thought this argument tolerably sound when I had used it on the Nugget. Now that it was used on me I realized its soundness ever more thoroughly.

Sam beamed expansively upon me from the doorway. "However, even the quiet rural life has its interests. I guess we shan't be dull!" he said.

One result of the adventure was that when we had returned to Sanstead Ogden's bed was moved to a sort of cubbyhole adjoining by room. The window was too small to allow a man to pass through, and the only means of entrance was by way of my room. By night, at any rate, the Nugget's safety seemed to be assured.

To me, however, there had come a period of mental unrest more acute than I had ever experienced. At night sometimes, as if I lay awake, I would tell myself that if only I could see Cynthia, or even hear from her, the struggle would be easier.

And then, one morning, as if in answer to my thoughts, her letter came. It was very short, almost formal.

My Dear Peter: I want to ask you a question, but it is quite shortly. It is this—are your feelings toward me still the same?

I don't tell you why I ask this. I simply ask it. Whatever your answer is, it cannot affect our friendship, so be quite candid.

CYNTHIA.
I sat down there and then to write my reply. Cynthia's letter was like an unexpected reinforcement in a losing battle. I told her that my feelings had not altered, that I loved her and nobody but her.

Returning from posting my letter, I met Audrey. For the first time I found myself feeling resentful toward her. I raised my hat, uttered a crisp "Good morning," and passed on.

"Peter!"
"You are in a great hurry," she said. "Are you worried about anything?"

"No," I answered. "Why?"
"I was afraid you might be."

I made no reply. We walked to the house in silence and when we parted in the hall she did not look at me. Her face was cold and off-set.

Having created what in the circumstances was a most desirable coldness between Audrey and myself, I ought to have been satisfied. The fact that I regretted it is only a proof of the essential weakness of my character.

CHAPTER XXI
In those gray days there was one thought, of the nature that occupied my mind, which brought with it a certain measure of consolation. It was the reflection that the school term was drawing to a close.

I was resolved that the last day of term should end forever my connection with Sanstead house and all that was in it. Meanwhile I considered myself responsible to Audrey for the safeguarding of the Little Nugget, and no altered relationship between us could affect my position.

Sam's behavior puzzled me. I do not know exactly what I expected him to do, but I certainly did not expect him to do nothing. Yet day followed day, and he made no move.

Nevertheless, when he made his attack, it was the very simplicity of his methods that tricked me and only pure chance deflected him.

I have said that it was the custom of the staff of masters at Sanstead house—in other words, of every male adult in the building except Mr. Fisher or himself—to assemble in Mr. Abney's study after dinner for an evening to drink coffee.

On this particular evening, for the first time since the beginning of the term, I was seized with a prejudice against coffee.

I waited, for form's sake, till Glossop and Mr. Abney had filled their cups, then went to my room, where I lay down in the dark to wrestle with my conscience.

THE GUMPS—ANDY GUMP IN PERSON, NOT A MOVING PICTURE

to you. I have just been informing Mr. Burns that Mr. Ford has written asking me to allow his son to stay at the school for the first few days of the vacation."

He turned to Audrey.
"You will doubtless be surprised, Mrs. Sheridan, and possibly—ah—somewhat startled, to learn that White is a detective in the employ of Pinkerton's agency. Mr. Burns is trying to get the boy away and take him back to his mother."

"I heard Audrey give a little gasp. 'Will you please read this, sir?' He handed a letter to Mr. Abney, who began to read at first in a detached, judicial way, then with startled eagerness."

"I regret to say that I felt it necessary to search among Mr. Burns' papers, sir, in the hope of finding—And then I knew what he had found. It was Cynthia's letter, that damning document which I had been mad enough to read to him in London. Mr. Abney was speaking."

"Is your name Peter, Mr. Burns?"
"Yes, sir."

"You will have Mr. Burns to help you, White."

"I quite agree with you, sir, that somebody should be here to help me look after the boy; but not Mr. Burns."

CHAPTER XXII
We arrived somehow at the last week of term, and the holiday spirit was abroad in the school. Among the boys it took the form of increased disorderliness.

Shortly after breakfast on the last morning but one of the term a message was brought to me that Mr. Abney would like to see me in his study.

I found Mr. Abney pacing the room, a look of annoyance on his face. At the desk, her back to me, Audrey was writing. It was part of her work to take charge of the business correspondence of the establishment.

"Ah, Mr. Burns," Mr. Abney said. "Might I ask if your plans for the holidays, the—ah—holidays, are settled? No? Ah—excellent!"

He produced a letter from the heap of papers on his desk.
"Ah—excellent! I have no right to ask what I am about to—ah—in fact, ask. But in the circumstances perhaps you may see your way to doing me a considerable service."

He received a letter from Mr. Elmer Ford, which puts me in a position of some difficulty.

"It appears that certain business matters call him north of England for a few days, thus rendering it impossible for him to receive the little Ogden tomorrow. He wishes to leave little Ogden at the school for the first few days of the holidays, and I should be extremely obliged, Mr. Burns, if you could find it possible to stay here and—ah—look after him."

He pressed the bell. The door opened and Smooth Sam Fisher entered.

"You rang, sir?"
"Ah! Come in, White, and close the door. I have something to say

I nodded. Speech was beyond me. "This letter is written by—ah—by a lady. It asks you in set terms to—ah—hasten to London with you. Do you wish me to read it to you?" I had nothing to say. I caught a glimpse of Audrey's face.

"I will go and pack," I murmured feebly.

CHAPTER XXIII
"Can I help?" Sam was standing in the doorway. "Losing your job here won't break you. And, if you're worrying about Mrs. Ford and her feelings, don't cheer up. You're all right! Think of my happiness, if you want something to make you feel good. Believe me, young man, it's some. I could sing!"

And on the vocal, emotion-overcoming, he brought his fat hand down with a resounding smack on my bowed shoulders.

"Get out!" I yelled, and he left me. I evacuated Sanstead house unostentatiously. It was a wonderful morning. I think something of the exhalation of approaching spring must have stirred me, for quite suddenly I found myself alert and full of schemes. Why should I feebly withdraw from the struggle? I went to London, but arrived at Sanstead the next day with a suitcase containing, among other things, a pistol.

My first act, after engaging a room at the inn and leaving my suitcase, was to telephone Audrey. I felt I must tell her the facts of the case of Smooth Sam.

I chose a moment when dinner was likely to be over and Audrey might be expected to be in the drawing room. It was her voice that answered the call.

"This is Peter Burns speaking."

"Yes?"
"I want to speak to you on a matter of urgent importance."

"Well?"
"I can't do it through the telephone. Will you meet me in half an hour at the gate?"
"Where are you speaking from?"

"The Feathers. I am staying there."

"I thought you were in London."

"I came back. Will you meet me?" She hesitated.

"Why?"
"Because I have something important to say to you—important to you."

"Very well."

"In half an hour, then. Is Ogden Ford in bed?"

"Yes."

"His door locked?"

"Then lock it, and bring the key with you."

"I met her at the entrance to Sanstead house grounds."

"Shall we walk down the road? You may not have been followed, but it is as well to be on the safe side."

"Followed? I don't understand. Who would follow me?"

"A very eminent person of the name of Smooth Sam Fisher."

"Smooth Sam Fisher?"
"Better known to you as White."

"I don't understand."

"The man who poses as a Pinkerton detective is Smooth Sam Fisher, a professional kidnaper."

"But—but—"

"But what proof have I? None. He told me in the train that night going to London."

"Why did he tell you?"

"Because he posed me as an accomplice. He wanted my help. It was I who got Ogden away that day. Sam overheard me and he gathered that I was in the same line of business as himself. He suggested a partnership, which I was unable to accept."

"Why?"

"The objects were different."

"Oh, I know what your motive was! Isn't there any depth to which a man who thinks himself in love won't stoop? She looked at you with those big brown eyes of hers—I can see her—and dropped, and cried, till you were ready to do anything she asked you!"

Popular WGM Stars
Heard on Early Program
Last Night From The Constitution's Station.

A more talented array of artists than those heard on station WGM's 6 to 7 o'clock program last night have not passed before the microphone of this station in many months. The list included Mrs. Marcelle Stanton Megahie, mezzo-soprano; Mrs. Olive Butler, lyric soprano; Miss Jeanne Wynne, pianist.

Mrs. Megahie has been heard many times from this station but her voice was never so sweet and beautiful as on her selections last night. A pure, fresh voice, flexible and expressive, with remarkable intonation, and unbounded enthusiasm are qualities which have endeared this charming and gifted young Atlanta matron to thousands of radio fans and music lovers.

Mrs. Butler's voice is one of unusual richness and sweetness, and an even quality throughout its entire compass. Her numbers last night—many of them calling for utmost exactitude—were given most beautifully and no doubt thrilled the hearts of music lovers who listened in for the early offering.

Miss Wynne needs little introduction to WGM fans. She is an idol of fans of this station. Her piano solos and accompaniments last night were all that critical fans could desire. She is truly a finished pianist and displays unusual gifts and training for so young an artist.

The trio of brilliant stars blended their efforts in a program of variety and interesting musical features which have characterized station WGM's broadcasts for many months.

Philadelphia Fan Lauds Quiet Night Movement of WGM

Atlanta Insurance Man Expresses Appreciation to Constitution.

Letters, cards and telephone calls of appreciation are still pouring in station WGM. The Atlanta Constitution for The Constitution's voluntary action in setting Wednesday as a quiet evening for Atlanta listeners.

Among those received was the following letter from William Tuttle of the Philadelphia Evening Bulletin: "It may interest you to know that last evening I had the pleasure of hearing your station."

"But what particularly interested me was the stand you have taken concerning one night quiet week. I believe you are taking a forward movement which must meet the approval of most owners of tube sets in your neighborhood. We have in Philadelphia three stations that are offering magnificent work, but they are offering to a large extent the good to be by overloading."

"One of the many Atlanta listeners who have expressed to WGM their appreciation of its quiet night movement is William H. Smith, of the Atlanta Central Life Insurance company. Mr. Smith writes as follows: "I do not feel that it is presumptuous for me to use the greeting 'Dear Friends' when for 25 years I have looked out the front door for your morning message and, thank the Lord, I have always found there the same circulation manager, friend, and one all to himself."

"As a radio fan, I want to thank you sincerely for your voluntary consideration of the public in giving the quiet night and thereby affording an opportunity to listen in to outside stations. Consideration for our fellow man in his estimation is one of the real tests of citizenship and one of the real elements of happiness in this world."

Gutzon Borglum Explained Stupendous Memorial Task To Listeners Last Night

World's Foremost Sculptor Appeared on Station WGM's 9:30 to 10:30 Program Last Night.

Gutzon Borglum, the world's foremost sculptor, who is engaged in the stupendous task of chiseling into the side of Stone Mountain a memorial to the Southern Confederacy, spoke to radio fans of America last night on Station WGM's 9:30 to 10:30 program.

The talk by the celebrated artist was intensely interesting in that it explained some of the unusual and outstanding features of his work on Stone Mountain, a task which—when completed—will be the greatest sculpturing effort of all time. The wonderful brain of Mr. Borglum years ago, and although active work has been in progress only for a few months, the work is entering into its most important stage at present, and the world is looking forward to the completion of the almost unbelievable accomplishment with unusual interest.

TEXAS GRAND JURY RETURNS CHARGES AGAINST CLARKE

Houston, Texas, March 1.—An indictment charging violation of the white slave act has been returned by the federal grand jury here against Edward Young Clarke, of Atlanta, former acting financial wizard of the Ku Klux Klan. It was returned this afternoon. The allegations in the bill are not of an extensive nature, simply setting the charge that the woman named was transported for immoral purposes from one state to another in violation of the Mann act.

Statement by Clarke.

The following statement was furnished to the press Thursday night by Edward Young Clarke: "I have not yet received any detailed information in regard to the matter but am not guilty of the charge supposed to have been made against me and upon which the indictment is reported to have been obtained. It is simply another effort to discredit me and through discrediting me to damage the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan. I have won every case that has come to trial that I have brought against me and I am sure that if indictment has been obtained as indicated that when the matter goes to trial I will be found entirely vindicated."

With Bill Munn, pianist, are the following members of the orchestra: Louise Rittenbaum, violin; Pete Sullivan, trumpet; Bishop Foreman and Elmer Gibson, saxophones; Dewey Bass, banjo, and Duke Wellborn, drums.

The Dominoes have been organized for more than a year and have found high favor with their dance music. Peanut Growers Complete Work Of Organization

Albany, Ga., March 1.—(Special) Effective organization of the peanut growers of 25 south Georgia counties was completed here today, when the growers signed up for carrying co-operative marketing to the farmers in a campaign that is expected to have more than 50 per cent of the growers signed up during the next 60 to 90 days.

Following the morning meeting of growers, at which interesting addresses were delivered by Judge R. W. Bingham, of Louisville, Ky., and J. E. Conwell, of Athens, president of the Georgia Cotton Growers' Co-operative Association, the executive committee held an enthusiastic business session this afternoon.

R. E. L. Spence, chairman of the executive committee, and the tentative committee selected by him to direct the work also was made permanent. Judge Bingham showed deep interest in the movement by offering to lend the organization $5,000, without interest, to defray organization expenses, he repaid after the Georgia association got on its feet and dues begin coming in. The executive committee will employ a competent secretary and treasurer and a publicity agent. Another man will be employed to direct organization work in the various counties.

Sapir Contract.

A form of contract drawn up by Aaron Sapir, after he had investigated conditions in the peanut growing counties, was adopted and it is believed the growers will be glad to sign it. Those who were here today indicated that they fully approved it, and hearty co-operation among the growers is anticipated.

Many counties, where peanuts are an important crop, will be the first in which the contracts will be presented to growers. This canvass will probably begin within a few days and as rapidly as possible the work will be extended into all the counties.

While today's meeting was not largely attended by growers as was the one of two weeks ago, there were good delegations from all the interested counties, and these delegations promised the hearty co-operation of farmers generally.

It is the belief of representatives here today that the co-operative marketing movement will have cordial support, and that the organization now perfected will solve the peanut marketing problem. Judge Sheppard Bryan, of Atlanta, was elected legal adviser of the co-operative committee.

Representatives of Exchanges, Shippers and Mills Seek Solution to Industry's Problems.

New Orleans, March 1.—Representatives of cotton exchanges, associations, shippers, mills and others interested in the industry attended sessions of the national cotton conference held here today, but the exchange and mill representatives which now exist in the trade. The conference was called by the New Orleans Cotton Exchange and will continue through tomorrow.

Definition of the term "7-8 to 1" staple, a problem that cotton factors declare has been the source of much trouble, was the first subject taken up after organization of the conference with L. S. Butler, president of the New Orleans Cotton Exchange, and E. W. Weil, of Montgomery, Ala., as secretary.

Representatives of the United States and foreign exchanges, shippers and shipping associations led a lengthy discussion to instruct their arbitration boards that "7-8 to 1" staple be interpreted as meaning that no cotton in such a shipment may measure less than 7-8 and that one shall measure more than one inch. The final ruling was that 15-16 inch would fall into this classification. The same rule is expected to extend to other staple terms such as "1 inch to 1-1/8" and "1-1/8 inch to 1-1/4."

Among the resolutions adopted at the afternoon session was one providing that all arbitrations between shippers and cotton factors take place over the question of rejections by mills where shippers fail to make deliveries within the specified time. A new rule on this point was adopted by the New England rule, was suggested to apply to southern mills, but a special committee was appointed to redraft the resolution.

Another resolution that buyers test their weights and scales against standards by government weights and standards was passed without opposition.

There was a lengthy debate on the question of natural weight and the present system of charging extra for bagging and ties, many of the delegates contending that bagging and ties should be eliminated from the weights of cotton bales and that the cotton should be billed at its actual net weights.

New High Records Are Made for Sugar, Copper and Motor Accessory Groups—American Can, 104-1-2.

Day's total sales, 1,286,000 shares. Industrials averaged 104 1/2; gain, 38. High, 1923, 104 1/2; low, 96.90. Twenty railroads averaged 89.37; net loss, 19. High, 1923, 90.43; low, $4.53.

New York, March 1.—Heavy profit taking failed to halt operations for the rise in today's stock market, bulls finding little difficulty in selecting new leaders when the old industrial favorites began to falter. Several new high records were made in sugar, copper and motor accessory groups and by American Woolen at 107 3/8.

American Can at 104 1/2, United States Realty at 103 and California Petroleum at 96 1/2, the last mentioned up 7 1/8 points.

Several combination houses sounded a note of warning during the day. It was pointed out by one large house on this point that the value of the brokers' loans now estimated in excess of $2,000,000,000, represented funds of interior banks, which were beginning to withdraw in order to meet the increased demand for commercial credit at home. This was construed as an indication of higher call money rates which would likely result in a sharp rise in interest.

While there were reports of expanded public buying the large bulk of the trading still was professional.

New York, March 1.—Realizing sales were absorbed on declines of about 20 to 30 points in the cotton market this morning, and rallies followed on a renewal of trade buying and covering. March deliveries made a new high record, selling at 30.23 in the late trading, while May advanced to 30.27 or within 2 points of the year's high price. May closed at 30.25 with the general market closing strong, 22 to 37 points net higher on the old crop and 2 to 6 points on new crop positions.

The market opened steady to 9 points higher on overnight buying orders promoted by dress cables indicating that organized short time was not ready to be adopted by Lancashire spinners. There was a good deal of realizing and scattered southern selling around the initial figures, however, and the market soon turned easier.

There appeared to be a feeling that more immediate trade needs had been pretty well supplied and that old crop months were entitled to further trading following recent extended advances. This probably accounted for some profit taking or local selling and more aggressive selling of new crop deliveries was encouraged by the prospects for fair and warmer weather in the southwest. Some stop-orders were uncovered as the market closed, with March selling down to 29.98, July to 28.82 and October to 25.49, making reactions about 50 to 80 points from the high records of Tuesday. After the execution of these stop-orders, offerings became very light and a very quiet early afternoon was followed by sharp advances on a renewal of domestic and foreign demand and covering by early sellers. July sold up to 29.50 and October to 25.57 or about 38 to 53 points from the low level of the morning and the close was within a few points of the best. The talk of trade buying here this afternoon was regarded as tending to confirm bullish reports from the southern spot markets, indicating that less cotton was coming out at the 20-cent level than expected. O.P.T. receipts today, 7,544; United States port receipts, 7,544; Exports, 41,272, making 3,701,713 so far this season.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON.
New Orleans, March 1.—Dry and warmer weather over the belt and less pressure to buy spots caused moderate declines during the latter part of today's session in the cotton market but, in the late trading, when early short sellers tried to cover they caused one of the sharpest upturns in the market. In the bulk and old crop and the new crops held back so that irregularity was marked in the last prices of the day. The close was 22 points up to 9 down, net May closing at 29.43 cents a pound, and October at 25.50.

Declines of 5 to 8 points came as a result of the early trading and the better weather over the belt, but the latter export movement of the day, 41,272 bales, and reports that factors' stocks of spot cotton to both eastern and western sections of the belt had been greatly reduced brought in sufficient support to cause a rally to levels of 29.43 and 25.50.
